War's Roar Gone, But Graves Remain

By Gene Budig and Don Walton

Somberly, the giant graves of war pierce the horizon.

Only the haunting wintry winds remain to whisper the first-hand story of the once-mighty titans of destruction.

The tale which originates east of Hastings is one of blood, sweat and tears.

Despite its might, many a widowed mother and lonesome child would rather leave it to the soil.

This story dates back to the early 1940s when Americans were swapping luxury for khaki.

The United States was at war.

Beehive of Activity

As bloody conflict swept Europe and the Pacific, more than 8,000 persons swarmed about the peaceful Nebraska farmland in a beehive of activity.

They pressed frantically ahead day and night in a daring bid to provide America's sailors with the explosive instruments of warfare.

It was a costly effort to even the score.

Here, in 76 square miles of flatland, 1,564 silent humps rose to bump the sky.

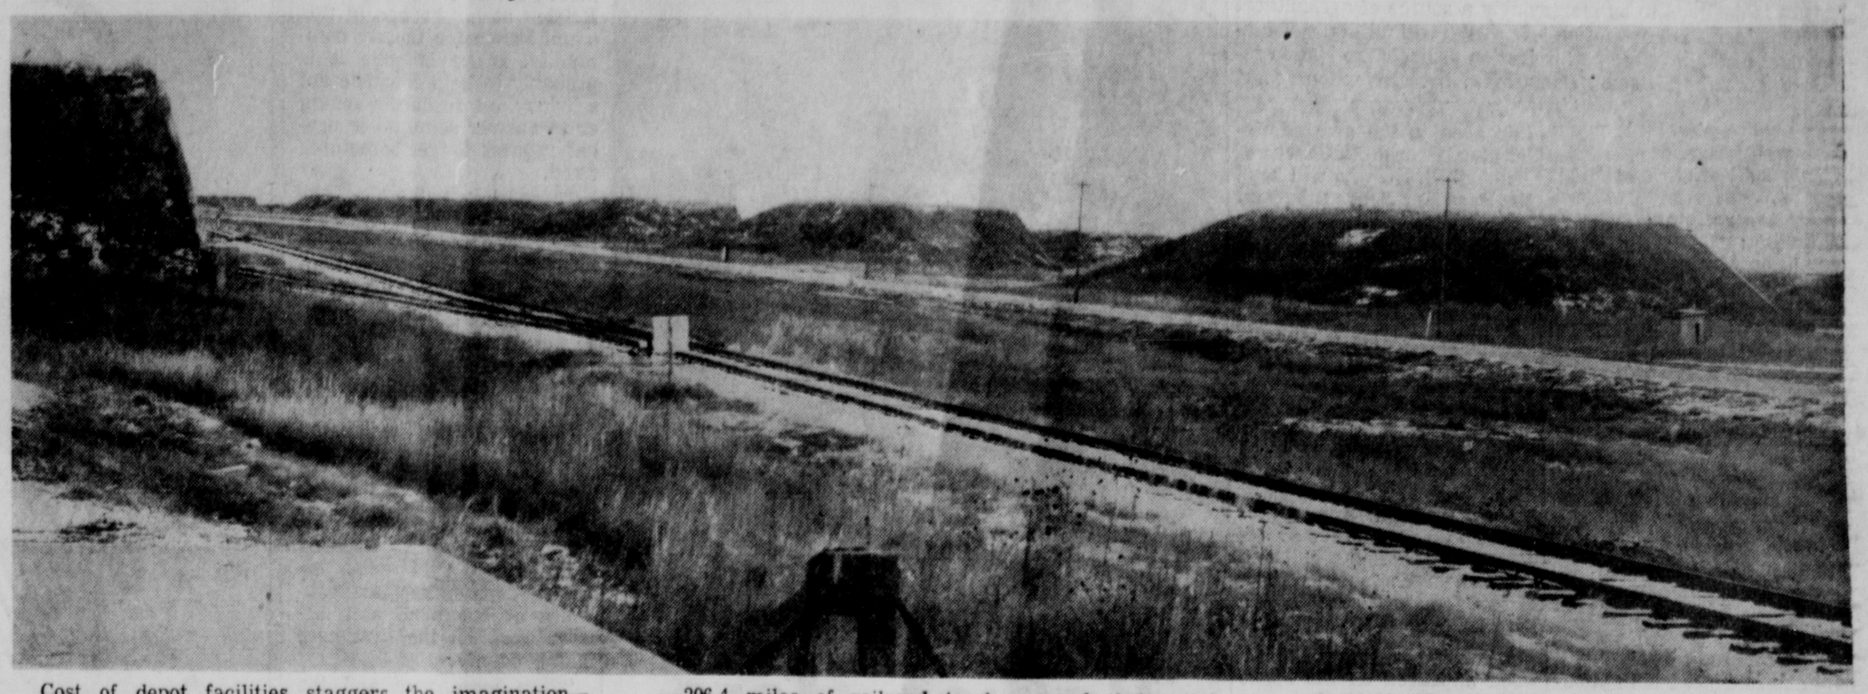

And, thus was born the Naval Ammunition Depot.

It spread its vast girth across 48,753 acres and set about its deadly mission—the manufacture and distribution of weapons of war.

Construction of the huge security facility began July 31, 1942.

Less than one year later, its first ammunition shipment was rushed across half a continent to port.

In the preceding 12 months, nearly 2,200 buildings and magazines had been erected.

Cost of depot facilities staggers the imagination—a breath-taking $62,495,000.

But, with the expenditures came results:

—273.6 miles of road were carved out of the rich Nebraska earth.

—206.4 miles of railroad tracks spread their vital fingers to the doorstep of every bunker and building.

—57.6 miles of fencing enclosed the massive area.

—88.5 miles of pipe sent life-giving water flowing across the base.

—67.2 miles of power lines pumped electric power into the vast depot.

—75.2 miles of telephone lines gave it ears and a voice.

—17.7 miles of gas line crept under the soil; 18.4 miles

–COUNTRY IN NUMB SHOCK–

Belgium Like Crash Victim

By Eddy Gilmore

Brussels, Belgium (AP) — In a way, Belgium today is like a man who's been smashed up in a car crash.

The numbing shock of the Congo disaster delayed the arrival of the full weight of pain. But the agony of losing an empire has finally hit the nerve center, and the patient is writhing.

Waves of crippling strikes —coming at Christmas of all times—have struck a people already dazed, embittered and bleeding from the Congo's recent record of rape and murder and from the colossal loss of property and investment in that former colony.

So Serious

The threat to order in this normally prosperous little country is so serious that Premier Gaston Eyskens told the nation by radio "the very existence of our institutions" is threatened.

More than 100,000 workers are on strike.

Ships are stranded in harbors. Power stations are shut down. Trains, streetcars and buses do not run. In Liege, police Sunday reported seizing leaflets urging soldiers to disobey if ordered to put down the strikes. The army has been posted at key points to guard against sabotage.

Austerity Hit

The chorus of complaint is against the government's austerity plan, cuts in social services and increase in taxes, to cushion the shock of losing Congo revenue.

Foreign Minister Pierre Wigny is a sort of composite picture of a great many earnest, conscientious but troubled Belgians.

"The mess in the Congo," he said in an interview, "it's not just a Belgian problem. It's, well, it's the responsibility, perhaps first of all, of the United States, for the United States is the great leader of the West."

Haggard

His handsome face sagged with a haggard expression.

His responsibility, of course, is not Belgium's internal situation, but foreign affairs, and that is the subject on which he agreed to talk.

"I may be an optimist," he said, "but I believe if the correct effort is made, we, the occidentals — I should say the West—will be rewarded."

Situation Shift

Asked if he felt the United States let him down, he replied: "At first, yes. But now the situation has changed. The Americans do understand our position—a position that has brought to us—" his voice trailed off.

For the Belgians, the complex problems of the Congo are now moving up from the tropic lands to the cold, cobble-stoned streets of their cities.

--Johnson, Kerr To Meet--

JACK TO LEAD SPACE CONFAB

Palm Beach, Fla. (UPI) — An important space conference was called Sunday by President-elect John F. Kennedy with Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson and Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., flying from the Southwest to meet him here Monday.

C. Douglas Dillon, the Treasury secretary-designate who is vacationing at nearby Hobe Sound, Fla., also will join the conferees for lunch.

Kennedy last week designated Johnson to head the National Aeronautics and Space Council after the new administration takes over Jan. 20. President Eisenhower now is the formal head of this advisory and consultative body.

Kerr, by virtue of his seniority, is expected to succeed Johnson next year as chairman of the special senate committee on aeronautical and space sciences.

Discuss NASA

Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, said the president-elect called the meeting Monday to "discuss the relative roles of the National Aeronautics and Space Agency and the Pentagon in future space programs."

NASA and the armed services have been jockeying for priority in the space race since its inception. Earlier this year Eisenhower transferred much of the responsibility for space exploration from the armed services to NASA, leaving the Pentagon essentially charged with the development of rocket and missile weaponry.

Asked if the presence of Dillon meant increased space spending next year, Salinger said there could be no conclusion one way or the other because Dillon had been invited to lunch before the Johnson-Kerr meeting was set up.

Picks Up Kerr

The vice president-elect and the Oklahoma senator were due here in the early afternoon, probably flying on Johnson's private plane from Texas with a stopoff in Oklahoma to pick up Kerr.

On an otherwise quiet Christmas Day which Kennedy devoted largely to traditional yuletide activities with his family, Salinger also announced that the president-elect late Monday will release for publication a 176-page report on a special study of the government regulatory agencies.

The study was conducted for Kennedy by James M. Landis, a New York attorney and former dean of the Harvard law school who has had years of experience in the regulatory agencies. The importance attached by Kennedy to the study was indicated by its being among the first assignments announced by the president-elect after the Nov. 8 election.

Russian Aircraft Aiding Red Laos Liaison Work

Vientiane, Laos (UPI)—Soviet aircraft, which are parachuting military supplies into strife-torn Laos, also are being used to maintain liaison between pro-Communist paratrooper Capt. Kong Le and Red Pathet Lao guerrillas, it was reported Sunday.

Unidentified single engine airplanes have been landing at a freshly marked out airstrip in the village of Van Viong, 65 miles north of here. The Village is considered by military observers as an important command post of Kong Le, whose forces were driven out of Vientiane by pro-American Gen. Phoumi Nosavan.

The planes arrive from the direction of Sam Neua in northeastern Laos, the Pathet Lao Communist guerrilla stronghold since its capture from Phoumi's forces.

This reporter saw two planes painted the same grayish color of the Soviet Ilyushin-14 transports land on the grass strip in less than an hour.

The planes were of a model rarely seen here and not the usual Laotian armed forces liaison planes which are Beavers.

The twin-engined Soviet Ilyushin - 14 transport planes from Hanoi north of Viet Nam, have been parachuting supplies all week long to Kong Le and the Pathet Lao Commander C. Singkap.

The planes were photographed dropping what was believed to be ammunition, small arms, mortar tubes and food, near the new Phon Hon airstrip, only 40 miles from here.

But this airstrip looked deserted Sunday morning when this reporter flew over it. Apparently the activity had switched to Van Viong.

Omahan Sought In Killing, Dead

Omaha (AP)—For the second time within a week in Nebraska the hunt for a man sought in the slaying of an estranged wife has ended with the discovery of the husband's body.

The body of Floyd Blackburn, 45, was found Sunday in a car northwest of Douglas County's Clearview Home.

He was sought in the fatal shooting of his wife, Mrs. Shirley Blackburn, 40, Saturday.

Detective Sgt. Fred Bruning said Blackburn's death was due to carbon monoxide poisoning.

Last week, the body of 28-year-old Rodney Cheever was found at a farm house near Friend. Cheever took his own life.

He had been charged in the murder of his 25-year-old wife, Ruby, in Lincoln.

Found Body

The hunt for Blackburn started after a 17-year-old nephew of Mrs. Blackburn found the body in her residential Omaha home. He had been summoned by the couple's daughter, Gloria, 11.

She told authorities her father had come to take her shopping. He left her at a shopping center, saying he would return after getting a haircut. When he failed to return, she called James Kemplin, 17.

Police said Mrs. Blackburn apparently had been beaten with a ball bat before being shot with a .16 gauge shotgun. The gun was found on the scene.

Locked In

Sgt. Bruning said there was evidence the woman had locked herself in the bathroom. The door had been bashed in.

Police said Blackburn had worked for truck and cab companies. They said he returned to Omaha recently.

The couple had been separated for 3 years.

Grim Mishaps Hike Holiday Death Pace

Chicago (AP) — A wave of traffic deaths Sunday night—6 of them in one shattering collision—ushered in the last, and most perilous, day of the long Christmas holiday.

The stepped-up pace of highway tragedy brought renewed appeals for driver caution from National Safety Council officials. On the basis of the ominous trend, they forecast a heavier traffic toll this year than the 494 of last Christmas.

One of the most lethal accidents of the holiday occurred near Boron, in Southern California. Of the 6 persons killed 5 were riding in one car. Two more were critically injured.

With Monday yet to go, 335 were dead in traffic, 54 in fires and 59 in miscellaneous accidents, for an over-all total of 448.

"The trend was very encouraging in early stages," said a National Safety Council spokesman, "but it's beginning to look the way it did last year."

Midway through Christmas night, the traffic toll eclipsed the total for a comparable non-holiday weekend two weeks ago. And the most dangerous period was yet to come as travelers jammed the highways on homeward journeys.

The National Safety Council said before the 78-hour, 3-day holiday began that 510 persons might be killed in traffic accidents between 6 p.m. Friday, and midnight Monday (local times).

During the first half of the holiday period, fatal accidents were particularly few in some populous states with obviously hazardous road conditions. Police said that wide areas of ice glaze and snow-slick on highways tended to hold down traffic volume and cut speeds.

Fatal accidents were numerous in other states, particularly in the Southeast, where local danger conditions caught fast-driving travelers unawares.

The usual high holiday tolls developed where ideal weather prevailed and pavements were dry and fast.

Improved weather conditions over much of the nation quickened the fatality pace Sunday.

It assured a larger toll than would be expectable for a 3-day non-holiday weekend during winter weather conditions.

Two weeks ago, a traffic death survey covering the 78 hours from 6 p.m. Friday, Dec. 9 to midnight Dec. 12, counted 293 deaths in traffic accidents.

COLD TEMPS, WIND RETURN TO NEBRASKA

Santa Claus may have just missed a more wintry Nebraska Christmas in his travels Sunday.

Weather Bureau forecasts indicate that conditions that shot the mercury up to 53 degrees in Lincoln will be absent Monday.

Considerable cloudiness and wind and cooler temperatures are expected for most of the state.

Occasional light snow or freezing drizzle is likely in the west central part of the state, with some snow flurries in the Panhandle.

Highs are forecast for the 20s in the northwest to the 30s in the southeast.

The Farm Round Up

By Glenn Kreuscher
Farm Editor

An optimistic look to the future was forecast at the recent state convention of the Nebraska Reclamation Assn.

There is no reason for pessimism about the future—Nebraska is destined to be increasingly a source of agricultural products to sustain the nation—Nebraska will fulfill a substantial part of the inventory of irrigation projects the Nation requires from the Missouri Basin area, the convention report read.

Can we reach a limit on our deep well irrigation?

This subject, a long range one to be sure, was touched on by the reclamation group in stating: "The tremendous expansion of irrigation in Nebraska through ground water development is probably past its peak — most future enlargements to your irrigation base will be with surface distribution systems."

Taking a peek into the future the reclamation group said: "What our country will be like in the future will determine what our needs for resources development will be 20 or 40 years from today. We can expect that the nation's population will double in the next 50 years and that the combined growth rate of the 17 reclamation states will continue to exceed the national average."

Do Nebraska farmers changing to irrigation need to look to other crops?

The reclamation supporters recommend that it is essential that the irrigation operator shift to a variety of crops as soon as practicable.

As an example they point to the North Platte area, an old timer in irrigation circles, where last year 33% of the acreage was in cereal grain, 28% in forage and 35% in beans and sugar beets with a good showing of potatoes and onions on the irrigated land.

Some farmers just embarked on a few years of irrigation readily admit that they need a higher return from their crop acres than a straight pattern of regular farming will allow.

The Reclamation Assn. enthusiastically endorsed a program for the University of Nebraska to study crop opportunities, particularly vegetables on Nebraska farms.

The thought of advocating diversification instead of a one-crop corn economy was stressed as a reason for the needed research.

Thursday an organized effort to get behind the new administration's Food For Peace program will be initiated in Lincoln.

Governor-elect Frank Morrison will meet with interested Nebraskans in an effort to present the viewpoints from this area to the new administrator, George McGovern of Mitchell, S. D., who will head the Food For Peace program.

The conference will be held at the Cornhusker Hotel and will start at 10 a.m. Parties interested in this topic are encouraged to present their viewpoints at this meeting.

An inbound plant pest was stopped every 17 minutes on the average at U.S. ports of entry in 1960, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has reported.

How troublesome weeds can slip up on the farmer has been explained by Edmond Francke of Walton, president of the Lancaster Co. Weed District.

According to Francke, bindweed appeared on the scene early in the 1900's but was here a long time before anyone realized the harmful effects to crop production.

A strong supporter of clean seed, Francke tells how many farmers conscious of the damage from weeds would not think of planting seed that contained one noxious weed seed on their farm.

"Millions of teen-age girls across America are on the verge of malnutrition because they do not consume the amount of milk or milk products that they should each day," declares Sam Lewis, manager of the American Dairy Assn. of Nebraska, in a special message to dairy farmers of the state.

If you ate 1,488 pounds of food this year, you ate as much as the average person, according to USDA figures.

The largest average consumption of food products was allotted to dairy products with the average consumer using 414 pounds.

Fruits and vegetables were second high at 409 pounds.

Meat and fish came in third with 178 pounds consumed by the average person.

There is a legend behind your Christmas tree.

On Christmas Eve in the Ninth Century, St. Winifred is supposed to have interrupted pagans ready to offer human sacrifice under a huge oak tree. The Saint hewed down the tree and a tall young fir appeared in its place.

This was hailed as a miracle and it became the custom of German families to gather around an evergreen.

The placing of lights on the tree is supposed to have originated with Martin Luther, who was struck by the beauty of an evergreen forest under a starry sky.

When he came home he tried to create the scene for his family by attaching lighted candles to a small tree.

The custom spread all over Europe and later over the world.

Youth Jailed In Investigation Of Threat With Knife

Police jailed a 17-year-old West Lincoln garbage route helper Sunday for investigation of pulling a long-bladed knife on a teenage girl he was trying to pick up.

The youth admitted pulling a fish-scaler knife, a detective said.

He added the jailed youth and 4 others with ducktail haircuts and long sideburns had followed the 14-year-old girl, another girl friend and her mother "all over the downtown area."

Denton Folks Meet At John's Garage

John Hetrick ... Solving Problems

By Glenn Kreuscher
Farm Editor

Denton — "Well kid, what's wrong today"

For 33 years, John Hetrick, cap turned back, has looked up from a repair job to pass this familiar greeting to the steady stream of customers in trouble or friends stopping by for a visit.

Regardless of season, even most holidays, folks can find Hetrick at his garage in this small Lancaster County community. If he is gone it is probably to help someone get a tricky oil furnace running or to answer some other urgent request to get something fixed.

Those that talk about the good old days when folks gathered at a meeting place in town to visit say it still happens, at Hetrick's garage.

When folks ask Hetrick how he got started taking care of such a wide variety of peoples troubles that take in the farm machinery, cars, trucks, outboard motors, and home equipment he says, "I guess I just fell in."

Further explanaion by Hetrick shows his first interest in "fixing things" coming from the days when he watched his father, a blacksmith at Raymond and Agnew, work on the first cars in the county.

"Cars were new and the blacksmith the hardiest person on repairs so it was a natural," said Hetrick recalling his youth.

"Sure there are a lot of changes, everything is getting more complicated. Hydraulics, power steering, and motors cluttered with accessories add to the work load for the mechanic, but people still get just as excited when something breaks," reminds Hetrick.

There is one time of the year that Hetrick lays down his tools and takes time off —that's during July 4th celebrations when he sets off his blooey pipe—known for miles around as the loudest noise in that part of the county.

"Just another invention to give the boys some entertainment," says John but the usual crowd is swelled to limits beyond the capacity of the 26x56 building when they gather for this event.

What is on tap for New Years?

"Probably a car that won't start, a broken loader on someone's farm or a furnace on the blink, but we'll do something about it," says Hetrick.

Most of his friends are dead certain he has mastered all the answers to people's troubles.

"Why, John would even get a rocket on it's way if it ever gets in trouble out here," said a youthful friend who represented the third generation of folks stopping by at Hetrick's.

Man Slays Daughters, Then Commits Suicide

Stamford, Conn. (UPI) — A 48-year-old man shot and killed his two teen-aged daughters and injured 4 other persons Sunday night, then committed suicide when police closed in on him a short time later.

Police said Lawrence G. Moser, an unemployed plastics engineer, used two pistols and a quantity of acid in a berserk burst of violence that ended with his death on a lonely road where he was found walking by two officers.

Police said Moser hurled acid at a man against whom he bore a grudge and shot him twice. Moser also struck 3 women with acid during his rampage.

Captain of Detectives I. F. Montagnino said the shootings apparently stemmed from a "domestic problem." Moser was estranged from his 42-year-old wife, who was among those hit by acid thrown by Moser.

He said Moser killed his daughters, Marion, 15, and Charlotte, 18, in the kitchen of the Moser home while the girls apparently were getting ready to go out for the evening.

Mrs. Moser was visiting at the nearby home of Mrs. Veronica M. Frommeyer. The two women heard screams and shots and ran to the Moser home. As they were running up the drive, police said, Moser emerged from the door and threw acid at both women. They ducked past him and entered the house where they found the bodies of the two girls sprawled on the kitchen floor.

Montagnino said that Moser jumped into his car and drove to the home of Robert C. Garthwaite, a former neighbor with whom he had argued frequently.

Auto Damaged

Police said someone put a beer can opener in the generator of John E. Bannister's car at 2320 S. The armature was ruined; loss was $15.

Crop Days Slated

Crop Improvement Days will be held on the University of Nebraska campus Jan. 30-31, 1961, according to Dean Lancaster, secretary manager of the Nebraska Crop Improvement Association. Seed growers, scientists, field crop specialists and public officials will take part in the two day event.

Phelps Short On Physicians

. . . NEWSPAPER SAYS

Bertrand—"Phelps County has not progressed as other counties have as far as medical doctors' are concerned," the Bertrand Herald comments.

The Bertrand newspaper further states:

"At the present time, the county has a total of 8 physicians practicing in the county.

"In the last year the county has lost two physicians.

"It has been at least 8 to 10 years since a new physician has moved into the county seat for regular practice.

"Even a compliment of 10 doctors is not adequate to serve the population of the county.

Something Wrong

"With these facts staring one in the face, it is obvious that something is wrong. Phelps County is lagging with counties north of the river.

"The north side of the river, Lexington and Kearney have attracted too many cases of obstetics and surgery.

"Facts at the Herald office show that at Funk — 6 miles from Holdrege — the Kearney hospital has been the point favored by mothers over Holdrege for prenatal care and delivery of babies.

"It is apparent that Phelps County is failing to attract enough doctors to care for the needs of patients.

"What is wrong?

"The answer can be found only in existing medical units of the county.

"Why is it that young doctors are passing up Phelps County and going elsewhere to practice?

The Herald plans to probe the situation further by starting to survey the facilities of the county hospital.

Admiration Profitable For Martin

Kearney — Dave Martin's admiration for Senator Barry Goldwater has paid off.

Or so believes the Congressman-elect from the 4th District.

Martin credits his win over Rep. Don McGinley of Ogallala in part to his "Goldwater Conservatism."

"It was a primary factor in my election," Martin said.

Martin also says that President-elect Kennedy's farm program played a major role in his win.

The Kearney man said the Kennedy program indicated that all farmers would be subject to highly restrictive controls.

"The farm belt wouldn't go for it," he said.

Martin pointed out that "farm belt states turned thumbs down on Kennedy in the election."

Martin and his wife will leave here Tuesday for Washington to get ready for the opening of the Congress.

Martin was born in Kearney in 1907 and attended grade and high school here.

He later went to Dartmouth College in New Hampshire.

Close Eye Kept On Ammo Stacks

of steam main rushed heat into its structures.

—61.8 miles of cable criss-crossed its confines connecting 267 fire alarm boxes to provide protection against the grim horror that fire would ignite.

With the final purchase of $2.8 million of land—including 3 towns buried as casualties of war—the job was done.

Within the now-damp, musty confines, more than half a billion dollars worth of ammunition waited to answer the enemy's booming challenge.

The devices of retaliation came in all sizes and shapes.

The bu'ksome stockpile included everything from block-busting 2,000-pound bombs to tiny, death-dealing fuses

The Navy's standard 8-inch shell, its underwater depth charges, singing torpedo heads and hidden mines were stacked in huge deadly piles.

Marine guards kept in round-the-clock step at the depot, which grew to be one of the Navy's 4 largest.

(Next: It will take 5 more years to empty the depot's vast storehouse.)

Temperature Drop Seen

It will be warmer Monday in the Atlantic and Gulf Coast states and colder in the Central and Plains areas. Little temperature change is expected elsewhere. Snow flurries with some rain are due in the Ohio Valley and Great Lakes region. The northern Rockies will have snow while rain is forecast for the Gulf Coast states, east Texas and the Pacific Northwest. (AP Wirephoto Map)

OMAHA FUTURE BRIGHT

Omaha (AP) — Persons whose jobs include telling cities' fortunes picture a bright one for Nebraska's largest community.

It was just last year that Omaha slipped over the 300,000 population mark, but predictions are it may hit 400,000 by 1970.

By that time the city's limits are expected to spread out to include Bellevue to the south, Millard to the southwest, Boys Town and Irvington to the northwest.

And while predicting a booming future for Omaha, some of these same forecasters see an improved population situation for the entire state.

Among these individuals is Federal Housing Administration Director for Nebraska Russell M. Bailey.

He said the state is in a favorable position now to woo new industry.

Omaha City Planner Alden Aust says he believes by 1970 the city will add upward of 80,000 persons.

By that time, he said, it probably will require an added 18.5 square miles of land to accommodate the city.

With Overtime Comes Problem

Omaha (AP) — Omaha City Attorney Herbert Fitle is looking into a new way to balance out costs of police overtime pay.

What he is concerned with is the overtime policemen put in testifying in disputed court cases.

Fitle proposes adding a witness fee to the fines now paid by those convicted of traffic or criminal violations. The witness fee would not be included in court costs and would be charged only in contested cases when the officer has to appear.

Police Inspector Alvin E. Clinchard said members of the force have a total of 6,202 working days in overtime accumulated. He said it would take more than 25 additional working men working a full year to get rid of this and the 5,258 leave days acquired.

Fitle said if adding a witness fee does not require legislative action, he plans to go ahead with it.

Crawford Chamber Selects T. Warren

Crawford — Todd Warren was elected president of the Crawford Chamber of Commerce.

He will succeed Gaylon King.

Others selected were Jim Soester, vice-president, and Ed Farwell, secretary.

Calm Settles Down

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Poets have done nothing with the day after Christmas but it seems that the day would offer them quite a fruitful field of endeavor. Take, for instance, the battle going on in the corner over the boxes and ribbons piled up there from the day before. Plenty was spent on new toys but the youngsters have become involved with the wrappings and no amount of persuasion is going to change them.

Of course, the new wagon, ice skates, doll, sled or whatever else there is will have their day but boxes and wrappings have a special appeal. These are things which can be dealt with unmercifully and so they are particularly popular. You can sit in some of the boxes the toys came in and imagine yourself at the wheel of a big jet or a speeding racer. If the box splits open and is ruined there is no complaint to be registered for it is to be thrown away anyway. The wrappings are fun to roll in and cover up with simply because there is such a profusion of them. Anything in great quantities has a fascination for children.

Wallowing In Wrappings

For adults, the day after is a sort of letdown. Tensions have been so high for so long now that some of us have probably forgotten what it's like to really relax. With the hustle of Christmas buying, decorating, Christmas cards, travel and the other things which go with the holiday, it has seemed like someone took a few of the hours out of every day.

One thing you don't have to concern yourself about is dinner for the day. There is enough left over from Christmas to feed the family for days. The children won't want anything, anyway, but more of the candy they have been consuming for the past 24 hours so everyone can just snack for himself and the day can be spent in peaceful rest.

Christmas falling on Sunday may have had some advantages of which we are unaware but it certainly has had at least one talking point. It has given many people a day off on the day after when they would otherwise have failed to get it. This is a custom which should be followed with more regularity. As it is now, the whole thing is left to chance, at best, and this means a hit only twice in seven years.

The day after Christmas is sort of like the first week back from a vacation. Most people agree that an individual actually needs two vacations—one to enjoy himself in and one to recover in. The things that gets one is the comparatively sudden surge back into reality. Such events as Christmas or a vacation are not standard fare, thank goodness, and this adds to their appeal. They represent a change in the routine, a switch from the day-to-day events and activities of the remainder of the year. But while we might like to go a little more slowly from one to the other, neither would be good as a permanent bill of fare.

★

Just think of having two or three or more Christmases a year! That would probably do as much damage to the longevity rate as the good that has been done in generations by medical science. And while it is joked about, it would be pretty boring to have a vacation for 49 or 50 weeks of the year and work the other two or three.

The Pattern Of Living

Of course, even the advanced economy of the U.S. could not stand such idleness as that but the individual could stand it even less. Christmas and other drastic changes in our routine ought to give us a little more appreciation of our regular daily lives. We would generally be lost without such regularity and the business of psychiatry would probably become the biggest in the land.

We human beings have to be adjusted to a comparatively certain pattern. We have to have a reasonably accurate idea of the future or we lose our sense of security. This doesn't mean that we are all conformists but there are a few boundaries within which we operate or find ourselves lost. It is a little like the business world which, while fiercely competitive as a general rule, does not pursue a self-destructive course of action. So while the day after Christmas may appear to be a big letdown, it is just as much a return to normalcy. It isn't that we are unusually low after any such event but rather, that we have been unusually high beforehand.

All of this doesn't prove a great deal of anything except that the passage of a particularly pleasant time of year is no cause for regrets. It is the uniqueness of the time that really makes it what it is. If we lived with it all the time, it would cease to be a source of pleasure to us so today is a day of pleasant memories, not low spirits.

Nebraska On The Move

The willingness and enthusiasm of representatives of the community cross section to take part in Thursday's Food For Peace Conference here reveals several heartening trends.

One of them is that Nebraskans, as well as others, are at long last addressing themselves directly to the problems of agriculture. The time for general detachment is ending, for considering agriculture as a rather private matter between the farmer and his government; for negativeness and complaint rather than for thought and action.

Another is that foreign aid is getting a new look. The inconsistency of a hungry world on the one hand and a food surplus on the other is beginning to resolve in the proposal to join the problems to the improvement of both.

In a world divided between the philosophies of soulless materialism on the one side and human brotherhood and freedom on the other it is necessary to press the issue in the fields of physical defense and politics, but neither nor both, no matter how well done can provide the solution for they are common grounds of action for both sides. The third and great front is in the field of humanities and that is the one in which the West has the overwhelming advantage.

There is the deep desire in the hearts of most of the world's people for human dignity and self-determination. But these will be forever withheld from those whose poverty demands their total strength to exist. Shared food is a liberating force. We have it in superabundance. The adversary does not. Even at this critical juncture there are shortages in Russia, famine in Red China. It is time we pressed our advantage. Our so-called farm problem can become our most precious asset.

The Labor Laws

"As secretary of labor, Arthur Goldberg will be administering laws which he has condemned as unfair to the unions," so writes a news commentator.

Indeed, as counsel for organized labor, Mr. Goldberg has not only opposed both the Taft-Hartley and the Landrum-Griffin acts but has advocated their amendment.

Be that as it may it is wrong to prejudge the new secretary. It is not unusual or inconsistent for any number of ethical practicioners of the law to disagree with the philosophy of a law, but yet observe it to the letter in their practice. To think and believe otherwise casts a shadow of doubt over the whole makeup of law and justice. Mr. Goldberg, with a fine record for his ethical approach to the law, can be expected to observe the existing acts to the letter without ceasing personally to hope for their amendment.

There are mixed feelings about the two federal acts, especially the Landrum-Griffin law. One does not need to agree with Mr. Goldberg and others that they were designed as acts of war rather than justice toward labor to hold them in question. Those who sincerely feel that labor should be taken down a notch or two are forced to confess that thus far the Landrum Griffin bill has not lived up to expectations, nor has the Taft-Hartley act reached to the core of the question.

It is true that the Landrum-Griffin act strengthened democratic safeguards in unionism but it was mainly expected to rid labor of Hoffaism and underworld manipulation. Mr. Hoffa is still extant and if he is going to get his comeuppance, currently it will be because of his activities in real estate promotion which is another matter.

Dreadful Historic Date

It may be sweet to the Democrats to see John F. Kennedy take over things in the White House but these takeovers have had some dreadful aspects in years gone by. The problem, as reported by the National Georgraphic News Bulletin, has been the weather. From 1789 through 1957, the United States has witnessed 43 investitures, about half of which have taken place in snow, rain, numbing cold or piercing wind.

For an omen of things to come in 1961, National Geographic looks to, not the U.S. Weather Bureau, but the Old Farmer's Almanac which warns of the January 20 period, "Watch this storm." A word to the wise might be that if you plan on attending the inaugural in 1961, pack something warm and practical as well as your fancy duds. There, also, is speculation that the crowd at the coming inaugural ball will be so large as to force part of the group into an outside tent.

If you want to see just how loyal a good party man or woman can be, dancing in a tent in Washington in January should show you. But inclement Washington weather has been tragic in the past. William Henry Harrison was the first President to die in office, his death being attributed directly to his ride on inaugural day down Pennsylvania Ave. on a splendid white charger amid icy wind blasts and torrential rain.

Millard Fillmore was inaugurated in bitter cold, accompanied by his wife. The frail woman became ill and died within the month. The champagne froze at Ulysses Grant's inaugural ball and many other presidents were ushered in during the worst kind of weather. After eight years on the outside, the Democrats may not mind a few frigid blasts January 20 but tradition certainly produces its fair share of human suffering. And they say children who don't want to wear their boots in the snow have no sense.

Holy Land Now In Bomb Business

WASHINGTON — If you travel south from Beersheba on the Negev desert you pass through that part of Israel where Abraham, father of the tribes of Israel, cast out his Egyptian bondswoman, Hagar, and her son Ishmael at the bidding of the Lord, and where the Lord, in turn, brought water to Hagar.

That began the division of those two great semitic races, the Arabs and the Jews, a division which has reached bitter climaxes of late.

The town of Beersheba has changed considerably since the days of Abraham. It still has its camel market, where Bedouin tribesmen haggle over young camels, then load them, protesting and biting, into trucks. But on the road south from Beersheba, the modern camel has to be wary or he gets run down by the modern means of Israeli locomotion —the automobile.

Thirty miles south of Beersheba, however, is the most modern Near Eastern development of all—a nuclear reactor, which last week caused frantic secret conferences in the capitals of the world.

The news, since denied, that Israel was building an atomic bomb, shook the western capitals just as the western world prepared to celebrate the birthday of Him whose birth was heralded not far from Beersheba with the joyous promise "Peace on earth, good will toward men."

It is a tragic paradox that an atomic reactor with the potentiality of producing an A-bomb should be built in the country which gave the world the great goal of peace and the inspiring teachings of the Hebrew prophets. Yet it is understandable.

☆ ☆ ☆

The immediate background dates back to a few weeks ago when CIA officials in Tel Aviv asked Israeli officials about the new installation in the Negev and were told that it was a textile mill. Whereupon, CIA officials photographed it with long-range lenses which revealed that it was a nuclear reactor.

It was absurd for the Eisenhower administration to believe that the secret of the atom could be long kept, especially from Israeli scientists. After all, it was Jewish refugees from Hitler who first gave the United States that secret.

Latin America Still A Puzzle

WASHINGTON — The team that President-elect John F. Kennedy has put in charge of American foreign policy has, on the whole, been greeted with paeans of well-deserved praise. But one of the most important members of the team is still to be found, and herein lies a tale of the errors of the recent past and a bureaucratic dead end.

Whoever takes on Latin America faces a staggering task. The example of Cuba is like a contagion spreading to one country after another, with the communists busy fanning the fire. It would be hard to exaggerate the deterioration that has taken place in relations between north and south in the past 10 years.

Yet in the present setup of the State Department the post available for the brave man who takes on this job is only an assistant secretaryship. Under the late John Foster Dulles, who carried the State Department in his hat, these assistant secretaryships covering the several areas of the world went to career officers. They were subordinate to an expanding layer of under secretaries and deputy under secretaries.

This is the situation Kennedy confronts in picking a man for Latin America. Whether, in view of the drastic downgrading of the assistant secretaryships, he can find someone of knowledge, stature and ability to accept the office is questionable.

Kennedy has considered Adolf A. Berle Jr., although no offer has been made to Berle. There is general agreement here that Berle would be outstanding. He was assistant secretary of state for Latin America from 1934 to 1938 and took an active part in carrying out the good-neighbor policy and in initiating various forms of economic aid which, while limited in scope, set an important example. A little later he was ambassador to Brazil and one of the most popular representatives the United States has ever sent to that country.

But last October 6 in an address to Columbia University's American Assembly Berle made plain his conviction that the job of directing Latin-American affairs in the State Department could not be done from an assistant secretary's office. He argued for raising all the area jobs, but particularly that of Latin America, to under secretaryships. It was his contention that only in this way would the man in the office have sufficient authority to do what must be done and done quickly.

Otherwise, as Berle saw it, it would be necessary to spend a lot of time in bureaucratic infighting. From his experience in the Roosevelt era when, despite the good-neighbor policy, Latin America was something of a stepchild he knows how time-consuming and frustrating this can be.

The bureaucratic problem is, of course, a real one. If Latin America is raised to an under secretaryship, what about Asia, the Middle East and Western Europe. One of Kennedy's first appointments was that of Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan to be assistant secretary of state for Africa. With the forces of revolution and nationalism churning up the dark continent it would be hard to argue that Africa is not just as important as Latin America.

☆ ☆ ☆

One proposal has been to create a special office of coordinator of inter-American affairs in the White House, such as was filled by Nelson Rockefeller during World War II. But the jealousies of other departments would operate against that setup, as they did against Rockefeller in two separate White House assignments.

Wonders Of The Universe

A new and powerful aid to scientists in their quest for power to operate instruments in space may result from experiments just completed in the flight of the Air Force Atlas 5,000 miles downrange of Cape Canaveral.

Inside the 12-foot vehicle were two space power experiments installed by the Missile and Space Vehicle Department of the General Electric Company. One of the experiments involved a magnetohydrodynamic generator which operates on the principle that when a superheated gas or plasma passes through a magnetic field, electrical energy is produced.

The other and more important experiment involved the familiar fuel cell. Engineers believe this fuel cell is destined to provide continuous power for space experiments.

Today, satellites are being launched carrying a complement of 20,000 solar cells or batteries. These generate electricity directly from the radiant energy of the sun.

But when the satellite passes into the shadow of the earth and sunlight is cut off, the cells do not function. Thus, along with the solar cells go nickel-cadmium batteries which are charged by the solar cells very much like your automobile battery. However the batteries used in space are very special ones. They must be kept airtight to prevent the fluids from escaping — actually the deterioration of batteries caused a significant experiment in space to fail or be curtailed. The other, and more important, disadvantage of batteries is that they are just too heavy.

To get around this handicap scientists have perfected a hydrogen-oxygen fuel cell which can furnish energy when the satellite moves into the shadow of the earth.

The raw material of the fuel cell is common, ordinary water. This can be broken down into oxygen and hydrogen by electricity. Later if the hydrogen and oxygen can be brought together and combined to fashion water, energy is given up. This is the principle on which the fuel cell operates.

Imagine a long square tube divided into two sections by an ion-exchange membrane. One side contains oxygen and the other hydrogen. At the junction of the hydrogen electrode and membrane, the hydrogen molecules are broken up into positive and negative particles called ions and electrons. The electrons move through a wire to the electrode in the oxygen changer and in doing so create an electric current. The hydrogen ions pass through the membrane to combine with the oxygen and electrons to form water. As long as there are gases present the cell operates to produce electricity. Once the gases are consumed the flow of electricity stops.

Now imagine a fuel cell in a satellite. Once the gases in the closed fuel cell are used up the cell will stop operating. However, the fuel cell is part of a system in which the solar batteries act as the source of power.

When the satellite is in full sunlight, the solar cells will create electricity to operate the instruments and, at the same time, break up the water in the fuel cell into oxygen and hydrogen.

When the satellite passes into the shadow of the earth, the solar cells no longer operate. At this time the hydrogen and oxygen which came from the water is combined to form water again and the energy given off in this process is available for the power requirements of the satellite.

The fuel cell has a tremendous advantage over the battery. The scientist speaks of this in terms of efficiency, that is, how many hours of active power can be derived from a battery per pound of battery.

The best conventional battery will yield about 80-watt hours per pound of battery. This is the equivalent of lighting two 40-watt lamps for every pound of battery in the system. In the fuel cell experiments indicate that it may be possible to light six 40-watt lamps per pound of fuel cell. Thus for every pound of power payload put into the sky the fuel cell will give roughly three times the power.

Today scientists are finding that the one thing they feared, the lack of power in space, may really be present in abundance.

PHYLLIS BATTELLE

Some Sharks Follow Rules

NEW YORK — For nineteen years, she's been just a poor naval commander's daughter. Always on the move, never living in one place longer than six months at a time.

But now she's settled down. Way down. Most of her time is spent from 60 to 125 feet below sea level where, accompanied by her husband and her aqua lung, she frolics mid the shark and squid.

Asked how it feels, living among such dangerous neighbors, Wendy Wagner smiles gently.

"Why, they're not dangerous at all," she replies. "A Barracuda is considerably more benign than a lot of people-next-door."

Wendy is the girl with the flowing straight black hair, who is seen, always bubbling on CBS-TV's "Sea Hunt" and "Aquanaut" series in which she emerges, submerged, as both stunt girl and occasional heroine. Her husband is Courtney Brown, who is Lloyd Bridges' double. They met in an airlines terminal, but did their courting at 60 feet below.

"He was teaching me some fine points of skin-diving," Wendy remembers, "and we swam into a cave. As soon as it was dark he pinched me affectionately. There was nothing I could do. I couldn't slap him because he wouldn't have felt it, and I couldn't leave him indignantly because I'd never have gotten back to the surface alive."

So instead of getting mad, she literally upped and married him. Wendy's father, Cmdr. John H. Wagner, was a coach of olympic swimmers and he of course taught his girl to swim before she could waddle. She coached for the olympics when she was young (she's now 19 years, two weeks old) but never quite made it. Naturally, under the circumstances, she was "discovered" by Hollywood while romping on a California beach.

For her TV work, Wendy remains almost constantly under water, usually shooting a half-hour at a time before rising for a breather — but occasionally staying down for a stretch of several hours while fresh supplies of oxygen are delivered to her. It might seem difficult for the director, under the circumstances, to show his displeasure over a performance, but Wendy says "Not at all."

"When the director slides his finger across his throat, you realize you're not doing well. When he takes out a knife and slits his own oxygen cable, you know you're really bad."

Wendy's only kidding, of course. She gets along with directors just as she gets along with sharks, of whom (which?) she remarks:

"As long as you don't panic and show you're calm, they don't bother you. Of course, I've never met a psychotic one who didn't know the rules . . ."

Case For Research

Lincoln, Neb.

According to press releases certain senators believe members of the University's faculty spend too much time on "made-work" and theoretical research. Since I am not informed on "made-work" I will limit my remarks to telling a story that illustrates the possible manifold values of theoretical research at the University of Nebraska.

In the mid-twenties a young chemist at the University of Nebraska read a German article stating that a certain compound could not be prepared by a single-step process. The young chemist theorized that this didn't fit in with some of the researches he had done in similar areas.

When one of his graduate students was ready to begin work on his thesis problem the professor asked him if he wouldn't like to try his hand at preparing this particular compound using the single-step method. Within twelve months it was shown that the one-step would produce yields of over thirty per cent of the pure compound, and article describing the process had been accepted by a national chemical juornal. The graduate student was thrilled, and the young professor was pleased.

Three years ago the president of an electrochemical company in a mid-Atlantic city called the professor, now retired, stating that they had just come upon the article and wished to know if the details of the process were to be had. He stated that they were using the German four-step process and were getting very poor yields.

The necessary details were sent forthwith and shortly the report came that the one-step process was working very well, giving yields of over 30% of the pure compound. The president of the company, also, told the chemist that the company had followed his advice, built a laboratory costing $100,000 and added three research chemists to their staff.

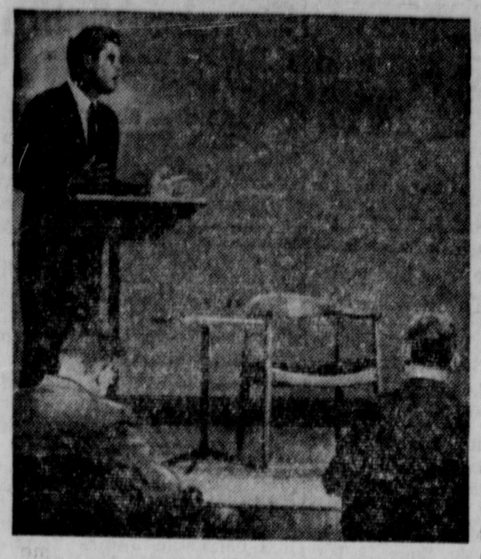

The manifold values from this piece of theoretical research were: a well trained graduate student, the satisfaction of the professor, the addition to human knowledge through the publication of the article, and the value this piece of theoretical research, whether large or small, for each of us through the electro plating process this compound is used in.

Kennedy Victory Chosen Top '60 News Story

By Tom Henshaw
Associated Press

Sen. John F. Kennedy's suspense-filled victory over Vice President Richard Nixon in one of the closest of all U.S. presidential elections has been chosen the top story of 1960 by news editors of Associated Press member newspapers and radio stations.

So thin was the Kennedy margin that not until noon the day after election, when Minnesota's 11 electoral votes fell into the Democratic camp, did the 43-year-old Massachusetts senator feel sure enough of his electoral ground to claim victory.

The Kennedy victory ended 8 years of Republican rule under President Eisenhower; it also placed in the White House its youngest elected occupant and the first Roman Catholic ever chosen to the nation's highest political office.

Foreign affairs dominated the other spots in the editor's top 10 story selections.

Close behind the exciting Kennedy-Nixon tussle, in the editors' estimation, came the U-2 incident, the shooting down of an American reconnaissance plane high over Sverdlovsk in the very heartland of the vast Soviet Union.

The incident gave the first intimation to the American people—and possibly to the Russian people, too—that high altitude aircraft were able to fly with virtual impunity over even the most closely guarded territory in the world.

The pilot of the downed U-2, Francis G. Powers, parachuted to safety and was sentenced as a spy to 10 years in a Russian prison following a public trial in Moscow.

The editors' No. 3 story, closely tied to the U-2 incident, was the collapse of the Paris Summit Conference in a welter of table-thumping, accusations and name-calling on the part of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The conference principals—Eisenhower, Macmillan of Britain, de Gaulle of France and Khrushchev — had gathered for the opening session when the Soviet leader demanded an apology for U-2 as a condition for continuing. The demand was rejected and the conference collapsed.

Independence for the former Belgian Congo, its collapse into chaos and subsequent United Nations intervention was the choice for No. 4 story. Despite the UN, the Congo situation soon degenerated into another East-West battlefield in the Cold War.

At the same time, a number of former French and British colonies in Africa moved peacefully into independence. Their mass admission into the UN served notice that the voice of the once Dark Continent is growing in world councils.

As the nation prepared for the Christmas holiday, two airliners coming in for a landing collided in a snow storm over New York. It was the worst aviation disaster in U.S. history, claiming 136 lives, and the editors selected this as their No. 5 story. One plane, a big United Airlines jet, fell in a densely populated section of Brooklyn, destroying a church and setting homes on fire. Eight persons perished on the ground. The other plane, a TWA Constellation, crashed on Staten Island.

Other choices in the editor's Top Ten:

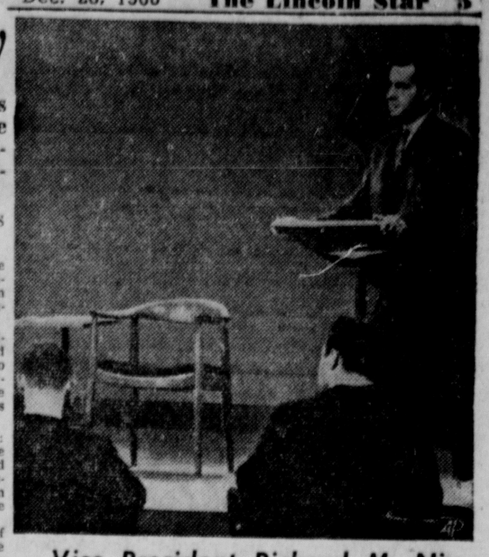

6. Fidel Castro's movement into the communist orbit and America's worsening relations with that island nation amid a barrage of propaganda and confiscations of U.S. property in Cuba.

7. The visit of Khrushchev, the satellite leaders and others to the United Nations, which turned New York into a hotbed of frantic maneuvering, accusations and demonstrations as police sought to protect some of the world's most hated men.

8. Space and nuclear affairs, including: U.S. retrieves first space capsule; the nuclear submarine Triton voyages around the world underwater; the Polaris-armed nuclear sub George Washington puts to sea; and France becomes the fourth member of the nuclear club.

9. The last minute cancellation of Eisenhower's visit to Japan in the wake of leftists riots over the new American-Japanese defense pact. Part of the same general story was the resignation under fire of Japan's Premeir Kishi, who engineered the pact through parliament.

10. Sit-in demonstrations in the southern states and the New Orleans school integration incidents. The sit-ins brought the Negro fight for equality for the first time into segregated lunch counters.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon's staunch battle helped make the presidential election 1960's top news story.

Seek Inspection Of Israeli Plant

Washington (AP) — Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah, suggested Sunday that Israel squelch all fears that she is building an A-bomb by inviting a United Nations team to inspect her new nuclear plant.

Moss said it is natural that "you can't place much reliance" on Israel's denial that no A-bomb is involved after the unusual way he said the vail of secrecy was lifted from the existence of the plant.

Moss, in a taped radio interview, made his comment when a questioner quoted reports that before world leaked out that an atomic plant was involved Israel said she was building a textile plant in the Negev Desert.

At the disclosure last week, fears were expressed that Israel might be making an A-bomb.

Untruth

President David Ben-Gurion strongly denied this, calling such reports "either a deliberate or unconscious untruth." He said the project the second Israeli nuclear reactor, was dedicated entirely to peaceful purposes.

The French, who are helping with the plant, also denied the A-bomb reports.

Moss said "I think it would be a very serious mistake for Israel to build an atomic bomb now and I certainly hope that this is not going on."

The congressman, who recently returned from a tour of Africa with President-elect John F. Kennedy's brother Ted, said that for Israel to have an A-bomb would have an effect of "shocking proportions" in Africa.

Down to Africa

"It might bring some very severe reactions among the Arab nations, and as far as that is concerned, clear down into black Africa," Moss said, adding:

"One of the things that we found cropping up as we went through Africa was a constant resentment of the fact that the French should have gone into the atomic field . . . and set off atomic explosions in the Sahara Desert. There's tremendous resentment to that and fear from it too."

The only answer, Moss said, is for Ben-Gurion to invite a U.N. delegation to look at his reactor—"this seems to be a very feasible solution."

Moss said an even more serious problem will be posed when Communist China sets off its first nuclear explosion.

'Fearsome'

"If Communist China builds an atomic bomb and has an atomic capacity," he said, "then we haven't any way even to talk with them, to try to forestall its use. And, I think it would be very fearsome day when that comes."

The answer, Moss said, is to try to get some international accord on atomic weapons.

He said it is inevitable that Red China will be admitted to the United Nations, and added:

"I think that the thing we ought to be doing now is exploring how we can have their admission there and gain out of that recognition and admission some commitments as to their conduct in abiding by the rules that we're trying to develop through the United Nations."

Ousted Sharecroppers Get Food Not Playthings

Somerville, Tenn. (AP) — Christmas meant bags of food rather than toys for the children of 7 displaced Negro sharecroppers now living in tents.

The 7 families are the first of what Negro spokesmen say could be 300 families who must leave Fayette County farms because they registered to vote.

Earlier this year Negroes registered and voted in numbers for the first time this century in the predominantly Negro county.

Mechanization

White landowners claim the evictions resulted from farm mechanization and that the sharecroppers no longer are needed. They claim voting rights are not involved.

The Fayette County Civic and Welfare League, formed to encourage Negro registrations, had expected a shipment of toys from the North. John McFerren, a Negro grocer and its president, said it was delayed by weather. He refused to name the donor.

Instead of toys, a league representative passed out the food to the families, now living on the property of Shep Towles, a Negro farmer who owns 200 acres.

The 7 families incude about 30 children.

Earthen Floors

The families have their house furnishings piled behind the tents. Inside are beds, kerosene lamps and wood stove. The floors are of earth.

Water is taken from Towles' house across a road. Toilet facilities were installed earlier. Clothes are dried on bushes. There are no Christmas decorations, except for crepe paper on tent poles.

Some of the families have been there a week, others a bit longer. Another moved in Christmas eve and more are expected Monday league spokesman said.

Propaganda

Some white residents say the developing tent city is a propaganda move to gain publicity for the sharecroppers' plight. They say the Negroes were given plenty of time to find jobs.

Sharing that view is Red Cross Chairman George Greene, a white resident of Sommerville.

Last week a federal court judge in Memphis refused to grant a government plea for an injunction to halt the evictions. Judge Marion S. Boyd ruled the civil rights act of 1957 did not cover contract and property rights.

The hearing was on a Justice Department suit to end an alleged conspiracy to deprive Negroes of the right to vote in Fayette County. Named as defendants are 81 residents and a bank. No trial date has been set.

W. J. Breidenthal, KC Leader, Dies

Kansas City, Kan. (AP) — Willard J. Breidenthal, 76, banker and civic leader, died Sunday in a hospital, two days after suffering a heart attack.

Breidenthal, 4 times a delegate to national Democratic conventions, served nearly 20 years on the state banking board under appointments by governors of both parties.

A consistent fighter for flood control, he was given much of the credit for construction of the Tuttle Creek dam on the Big Blue river near Manhattan, Kan., and for years he worked for stablization of the Missouri river channel.

He was on the board of the university of Kansas City and Rockhurst College. He was a major supporter of St. Margaret's Hospital.

Mystery Shooting Victim In Omaha Remains Serious

Omaha (AP) — Police hope Monday to be able to question Peter Ribokas, 61-year-old South Omaha grocer, who was shot in the jaw Friday.

Ribokas was reported in serious condition at a hospital Sunday night.

Detective Sgt. Glenn Gates said "We are unable to talk to him. We tried again Sunday."

Ribokas was shot at close range as he went to the door of his quarters in answer to a knock. His wife has said she knew of no one who would fire at her husband.

Castle For Sale: Cheap

By Karl H. Mack

Werneck, Germany (UPI) —It's certainly not the only castle for sale in Germany, but it is the only one of its kind.

The establishment includes a hospital complete with 100 patients, an orphanage with 120 children, a mental hospital with 600 patients, a church with a 400-year-old organ, "Heaven Room" with a balcony overlooking an English style park, a lake full of fish, wild ducks and swans, and a bowling alley.

All this and the main castle are for sale for the bargain price of $12,500,000.

The owners of the 750-year-old Werneck Castle have even more to throw into the bargain; Two skulls of mammoths of the last Ice Age, which were enearthed recently.

The Werneck Castle, historians claim, existed in 1202. It was sacked in 1525, during the Medieval farmer's revolt. After the revolt was suppressed, Bishop Conrad Von Thuengen moved in with about 700 soldiers in a severe retaliation move on the farmers.

In 1553 the castle was rebuilt and in the same year was burned to ashes again.

In the early 19th century the castle belonged to Bavarian King Max II, who sold it in 1853 to the county of lower Frankonia, for a hospital.

Adolph Hitler later used it as an Air force officers training academy. American occupation troops were housed in the castle after World War II.

Then the Sisters of the Holy Cross took over and gradually turned the castle into a combination hospital, orphanage, mental hospital, chapel, and tourist attraction.

The state of Bavaria, present owner of the castle, wants to sell because of the high cost of castle up-keep.

GOLDFINE RETURNS HOME STIRRING FAMILY 'HASSLE'

Boston (AP) — Bernard Goldfine came home and the controversy that has surrounded him for the last several years followed right to his temporary home in a hotel suite.

The 70-year-old industrialist, released from a mental hospital in Washington in the custody of his son Solomon, was greeted on his arrival at Logan International Airport by his wife, Charlotte, and another son, Maxwell.

Also on hand was one of Goldfine's attorneys, Lawrence R. Cohen, who said he was there to greet his client after having been advised by telephone of the terms of Goldfine's release.

Luggage Struggle

The group, which included Goldfine's daughter, Gwen and Maxwell's son Bruce, posed amicably for pictures, and then, according to Boston record photographer Jimmy McDevitt, Mrs. Goldfine started to pick up her husband's luggage.

Solomon Goldfine objected and told his mother to leave the luggage alone, saying: "I have the papers. He's going with me."

Mrs. Goldfine replied: "No he's going with me. I have the papers."

Mrs. Goldfine recently, together with Atty. David J. Burnstein, was made permanent guardian of the Goldfine estate.

Grew Heated

The argument that followed grew heated, until, Cohen interceded on behalf of Solomon and his father.

Sunday morning Cohen said he told Mrs. Goldfine of the terms of the U.S. District Court Judge George L. Hart Jr's order releasing the father to the son, which he pointed out, specifically denied Goldfine the right to live at 72 Beacon St., the family home.

Cohen said that some harsh words followed and at that point Maxwell Goldfine "raised his hand and shook it in my face. I thought he was going to strike me, so I grabbed his right wrist, knocking a cigarette out of his hand."

Simmers Down

The attorney said that at about that time flash bulbs started popping, and the argument appeared to simmer down.

The group, including Miss Mildred Paperman, Goldfine's private secretary who accompanied the elder Goldfine and his son Solomon from Washington, drove to downtown Boston where Goldfine had reserved a 2-bedroom suite with a sitting room.

It is there, apparently, that Solomon Godfine will make a temporary home for his father. The son lives with his wife and children in Scarsdale, N.Y., but has agreed to stay with his father here while psychiatric treatment continues under the direction of the court.

Court Order

At the hotel Sunday morning Solomon Goldfine said regarding the misunderstanding: "All I know is that I was doing what the court ordered me to do. The court told me what to do, and what not to do, and I was following those orders."

He described the arguments at the airport as "very unpleasant," but he declined to elaborate, saying he just didn't want to talk about it.

Goldfine, under federal indictment on income tax evasion charges, has been ruled incompetent to stand trial. Last Oct. 12 he was ordered by Federal Judge George C. Sweeney to St. Elizabeth Hospital in Washington for psychiatric treatment.

Sheriff Slim Johnston Calls Down Three Killers

Tulia, Tex. (AP)—Three Indiana jail escapees armed with shotguns, rifles and pistols surrendered to police on a deadend road today two hours after a policeman was gunned down by burglars.

The assistant police chief of this small Texas panhandle town, Robert Potter, died of two bullet wounds moments after he radioed to his headquarters and said:

"I have 3 burglars cornered in Wayne cafe. Get me some help fast."

Police Dispatcher J. L. Hatcher said he and officer M. B. Mitchell sped to the scene in a car and when they arrived Potter was lying dead on the ground outside the building. The burglars were gone.

About two hours later the 3 escapees were trapped on a dead end road near Canyon, about 30 miles north of here, by Randall County Sheriff L. S. (Slim) Johnston and Deputy Ray Tinsley.

Johnston, called Slim despite his 6-foot, 4-inch height and his 235 pounds, said he shouted at the 3 men to get out of their car.

"We've got guns," one of the 3 men shouted to the sheriff.

"If you start to use one, I'll blow your head off," Johnston replied.

The 3 men came out of their car with their hands in the air. One kicked a pistol under the car—where it might be available for use later.

"If you want to see the sun come up, keep those hands up," Johnston told the men as he and Tinsley approached the three.

Officers identified the 3 as James Roy Groover, 31, Elwood, Ind.; Donald Carlson, 28, Johnstown, Pa., and Haston Lee Winnett, 20, Sparta, Tenn., who broke out of the Madison County Jail in Anderson, Ind., Dec. 17. They were in jail on burglary charges.

A Hot Christmas

Sydney, Australia (AP)—Most Australians had a typical hot Christmas. Sydney's weather was humid on this fifth day of summer South of the Equator and the beaches attracted only about half the usual holiday crowds.

Protestant Leader Suggests Contributions In Lieu Of Tax

New York (UPI) — The head of one of the nation's largest Protestant denominations said Sunday the time may come when churches will own most of the real estate in the land. He called on them to consider making voluntary contributions to governments to make up for their tax-exempt status.

The Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, chief executive officer of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. and former president of the National Council of Churches, said the existence of large numbers of tax-exempt properties already is putting a heavy burden on those who foot the bills for police and fire protection and other services.

Blake recently launched a nationwide discussion and controversy with a proposal for merger of his denomination with the Methodist Church, the Protestant Episcopal Church and the United Church of Christ into an 18-million member body.

In a taped and filmed Christmas appearance on television Blake was questioned by a panel of attorneys.

He denied a report that he had flatly proposed that churches should pay taxes and "be relieved of their tax exempt status," but said he had asked churchmen if it was not time to pose this question:

"Is it true that an exemption which might be justified in a society when churches were weak and poor was necessarily a good exemption for the church and for the society when they became large and rich and powerful?"

Blake added that "I have a fear that if we do not examine this from the church side that in a measurable time, maybe 15, maybe a hundred years, if the churches operate prudently under the present laws, they ought to have most of the property of this country.

"Churches don't die and for that reason with inheritance taxes and so on and so on, I ask us to begin to ask the questions."

He said that he would never want churches to be subject to taxation to such an extent that a house of worship such as the Roman Catholic St. Patrick's Cathedral no longer could afford to remain on New York City's Fifth Avenue.

CARS' LOWER SILHOUETTE CAUSES ADJUSTMENT OF HIGHWAY PASSING ZONES

By Virgil Falloon

The lower sillouette in automobiles, and the advent of the compact, has resulted in some readjustment of "no passing" zones on Nebraska highways.

State Traffic Engineer Robert L. Meyer said Friday nearly half of the state's 7,000 miles of paved highways were resurveyed this past summer.

The remaining miles will be done next summer.

The lower sillouette in cars has dropped the eye level of the driver on the average to 44 inches above the road surface.

This is 10 inches lower than the previous 54-inch standard used in determining unobstructed vision of not less than 1,000 feet between approaching cars on the state's highways.

Nebraska highways "have been generous on the side of safety in their marking for no passing zones," Meyer said.

"For this reason, most zones needed to be lengthened relatively little, and in some cases, no increase was necessary."

Meyer said the instances were rare in which it was found existing zones were less than the previously-used standards.

While the "old eye ball method" proved pretty accurate during the recheck, Meyer's staff devised new equipment and procedures to give precision to the new survey.

Basically, two cars were rigged with sighting targets, odometers for measuring distance in feet, and two-way radios.

With the odometers and radio contact, the cars maintained a constant distance of 1,000 feet apart.

As the sighting targets slipped below the line of visibility, the crews in the car pulled the handle on paint-marking equipment yellow paint for one direction and white for the other.

As the crew members became experienced and proficient, speeds up to 30 and 35 miles were obtained on the more level stretches, Meyer said. In hilly areas, the speed was less.

Meyer said the equipment gave greater precision and eliminated physical contact between the cars. Older methods often used a 1,000foot length of rope to maintain distance, which proved troublesome on curves.

Meyer said the marking crews usually worked at night, using colored ilghts on the sighting targets.

"Heat waves off the paving during the summer made the target line hard to hold on sight," he said. "Also traffic was less at night."

Meyer said the equipment and procedures devised for the survey have brought interested inquiries from 3 or 4 other mid-western states.

Raleigh, N.C. (AP) — City police had plenty of clues to go on, after 230 light bulbs were stolen from 5 used car lots here. The thieves stood on the tops of used cars to get at the lights. They left footprints all over the autos.

Weekly Newspaper Editor Only 14

By Nancy Ray

At 14, being editor-in-chief and publisher of a thriving suburban weekly newspaper is old stuff for Bob Ammon of 1261 Fall Creek Rd.

The Piedmont Post, which changes names more often than it misses editions, came into existence in January, 1958, as a block-printed pocket edition featuring mainly advertising and jokes.

As it concludes its second year of existence, in the closet-office of the publisher, the Post features local and national news, ads (5 cents per sq. inch), society items, editorials, crossword puzzles, shopping reminders, and a brand new extra page devoted to "the world of numistics (coins)."

'Ink In Blood'

Bob turned "pro" at 12 because, as he romantically describes it, "I've got printer's ink in my blood."

The neighborhood paper has had its ups and downs, Bob admits, but each edition shows —contrived by the editor-publisher - reporter - copyboy - pressman - paper carrier.

At 3 cents a copy or $1 per year (delivered), the Monday edition has boasted 42 paid subscribers ranging from interested neighbors to envious schoolmates at Millard Lefler Junior High School.

Varied events have won the headline spot in Bob's 8-by-10 inch front page: the mine cave-in in Nova Scotia, class elections at Millard Lefler, and a fire in Piedmont Park (covered by the editor personally.)

One-Man Job

Bob's one-man operation is likely to remain just that, although he has "employed" several reporters during the paper's two-year history. He paid them with free copies of the Post, and recalls that "they all quit, or I fired them."

Like most small weeklies, Bob makes about 90% of his profit from printing jobs, such as letterheads, desk pads and calling cards.

To add interest to his little weekly and profit to his printing jobs, Bob uses an additional press (mimeograph machine) to put colors on the pages to play up important events or some of his own art work.

Colors Too

He also uses colors to pass on public service announcements ("Red Cross In Need"), informational items (weather maps and forecasts) and timely reminders (Halloween Is Tonight).

Although he started the newspaper because "I like to see the papers roll off the press," young Bob has turned his interest more toward the writing field and plans to make journalism his career.

"I'll have plenty of experience by the time I'm out of college," the 9th grader pointed out.

COMPACT NEWSPAPER PLANT

Home of the Piedmont Post is a closet off the recreation room of the Robert Ammon home at 1261 Fall Creek Rd., where young Bob Ammon, 14, writes and prints his weekly editions. (Star Photo.)

Ethiopian Rebels Hung Up In Public

Addis Ababa, Ethiopia (AP)—The bodies of two Ethiopian rebels killed while resisting capture were hung up for public exhibition in Addis Ababa's main square Sunday.

Thousands of men, women and children milled around the two scaffolds in Uenelik Square for a look at the blood-stained figures.

Every so often someone in the crowd let out a piercing yell—a sort of Ethiopian war chant—to express his delight that the rebels had been liquidated.

One of the dead was Girmame Neway, 38, governor of Jigjiga Province who was reputed to be the brains behind the recent abortive uprising of the palace guard against Emperor Haile Selassie.

You Can Lead Pangolins To Love, But They May Roll Up

Rome (UPI)—It was supposed to be a love at first sight, but when they met on Christmas afternoon, they just rolled up into two unsociable balls.

Trainer Angelo Lombardi introduced Pangolino the Pangolin, or scaly anteater, to a children's TV audience.

Ever since a Maharajah donated Pangolino to an Italian zoo, Lombardi said, the Indian anteater had mooned about, without a mate.

When the Maharajah heard about Pangolino's plight, he organized a posse of 300 men to comb the jungle for a female anteater to keep Pangolino company.

While Lombardi told this story, Pangolino kept curling and uncurling his long, scaly body and peered at the studio audience.

Then Lombardi announced that the long-awaited anteater bride had arrived, by air from India. With that, Pangolina, the girl anteater, was carried on stage in Christmas wrappings. Lombardi unwrapped her and set her gently on the table beside Pangolino.

The bachelor Pangolino took one look at the strange female, rolled up into a scaly ball and refused to show his head again.

Pangolina, followed suit. Lombardi coaxed her to unfurl, and she promptly climbed a fake tree and refused to come down.

"I think they want to be left alone," Lombardi said lamely, and went on to his next act—a flying squirrel carried in by a monkey.

MAN KICKS IN TAXICAB DOOR

Police arrested a 30-year-old Lincoln laborer for disturbing the peace.

Officers said the man ran out of the Senate Cafe at 11th and N and tried to pull open the door of a taxicab "to get at two parties in the cab."

Unable to pull the door open, he kicked it and caved it in, police said. Damage was $25.

The cab was driven by Larry R. Davenport of 930 So. 10th, Apt. B-4.

French Release Lebanese Plane

Oran, Algeria (AP)—French authorities have released a Lebanese Trans-Mediterranian DC4 plane forced to land here by the French Air Force last Tuesday.

Officials announced Sunday the plane was allowed to return to its home base at Beirut. But it was reported to have taken off without its 5-ton cargo of arms.

The French said these arms were destined for Algerian rebels. The airline said they were consigned to Morocco. In Sweden, the source of the shipment, the arms were reported bound for Argentina.

Priest Dies

Churches Hit With Kneel-In Demonstration

Deerfield, Ill. (AP) — A racially mixed group of 30 students visited 5 churches in this northern suburb of Chicago Sunday and staged what they called Christmas kneel-in demonstrations.

Deerfield was the scene of dissension earlier this year over a proposed racially integrated housing project. Authorities of the all-white village took over the project site for school and recreational uses, a move endorsed by the residents in a referendum and approved by the courts.

Joseph Kline, Jr., spokesman for the Chicago Youth Committee for Civil Rights, said the kneel-ins were designed "to stir the consciences" of Deerfield residents.

The kneel-ins were accomplished simultaneously without incident in the Holy Cross Roman Catholic Church, Zion Lutheran Church, First Presbyterian Church, Bethlehem Evangelical United Brethren Church and Trinity United Church of Christ.

In a statement, Kline said: "The purpose of this peaceful demonstration is to focus attention on Deerfield's discriminatory housing and to stir the consciences of those Deerfield residents who honor the birthday of Jesus but neglect his teachings in their day-to-day lives."

Police said the demonstrations were orderly.

Cave-In Kills 21

Tehran, Iran (AP — Twenty-one men have been killed by gas in the government-run Shemshak coal mine 40 miles northeast of Tehran, the government announced. A communique said two were rescue workers. The 19 others were entombed by a cave-in at the mine.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

At 35,000 feet, the morning was bright and blue as an airmail envelope. But below, London town was wrapped in the thick, winter English fog.

We made two slow jet turns — even throttled back, you can feel the pull in these enormous skyliners. The Captain came on the loudspeaker and announced we would go on to Frankfurt, Germany.

An hour later we slid down through a blanket of cloud and onto the wet, black runway.

The porter at the hotel in Bad Homburg looked up the schedules for me and said I could catch the 9:50 a.m. train for the Austrian Tyrol and the ski country.

"Everyone is going to the ski towns now," he said. "Yet as you pass through our little village, you should know that American diplomacy owes a great deal to this town."

"How is that?"

"This is the home of the Homburg hat," said the porter proudly. "Without the Homburg, where would your diplomats be?"

"Where are we now?"

"Ah, yes. The Castro situation," said the porter. "But think how much worse it would be if your people faced the Cuban without the proper hat. The Homburg is the foundation of dignity."

He said the hat was given prominence by Edward VII of England.

"He was Prince of Wales then—a gay fellow in the night life of Europe. He came here to play the gambling casino and bought a hat. When he returned to England, the press christened it a Homburg."

* * *

The porter said that the home of the diplomatic hat had not been considered worth more than an occasional near miss during World War II.

"There was some damage. But not like the carpet bombing you did in Frankfurt.

"It seems curious that Americans should do this. To us you owe your diplomatic dignity. To Frankfurt you owe the hot dog—I believe you Americans could not live without this famous wurst.

"So, within a radius of a few miles, we have supplied you with diplomatic dignity and the foundation of American baseball."

*

All roads from Germany lead to the ski lands these wintry days. I boarded a TWA 707 at 9 a.m. in Francisco. At 11 o'clock that night—even with three hours layover in New York—I was in Bad Homburg.

Air fares are at the lowest of all year in the winter. And the 17-day, all-expense excursion to the ski country is the lowest cost trip possible to Europe.

The high-flying jets soar far above the weather—though there is more chance at this time of year that your destination may be closed by winter fogs.

"Many American skiers pass through at this time," said the porter. "I tell them all the story of the Homburg hat and the frankfurter.

"This helps Germany's dollar trade."

"You mean the skiers buy Homburg hats?"

"No," said the porter. "No skier has asked where to get a Homburg. But nearly all of them say, 'Where can I get a real American hot dog?'"

Bible Readings Favored

Chicago (AP)—Nearly 3 out of 4 public school superintendents polled by an educational magazine say they favor Bible readings in the classroom. The Nation's Schools, a professional journal, asked superintendents: "Do you believe that reading from the Bible (any Christian version)—without interpretation or comment—should be permitted in the public school classrooms? Favorable replies totaled 72%. Opposed: 28%.

Indian Saint?

Rome (AP) — Kateri Tekakwitha, born 3 centuries ago in an Indian village at present day Auriesville, N.Y., may be beatified soon. The second of two miracles needed prior to beatification by the Roman Catholic Church is now under examination at the Vatican. Further study remains, however, before final canonization. The girl is described in articles written about her as "the Lily of the Mohawks."

Spared Killer Begins New Life On Christmas Day

Fort Madison, Iowa (UPI) — A convicted murderer, spared from the gallows, began a new life Christmas Day in "death row" at the Iowa State Penitentiary — and asked for a second helping of turkey.

Lee Hawkins, 47, a former Waterloo packing plant worker, said he "felt like screamin' for joy" when he was told that Gov. Herschel C. Loveless had commuted his death sentence to life imprisonment.

Then he asked permission to remain in "death row" until after the Christmas dinner had been served.

Remember It

"I feel I just want to eat my Christmas dinner in death row because this is one Christmas I don't want to forget," Hawkins told Warden John Bennett.

Bennett granted the Christmas wish and Hawkins ate his holiday dinner mostly in silence, except for an offhand remark that "I might have beat it" (the murder conviction) if he had another trial. He has maintained his innocence and has an appeal pending before the Iowa Supreme Court.

Hawkins was sentenced last Feb. 3 after being convicted of first degree murder in the slaying of Archie Fox, 48, also of Waterloo. His execution date had been set for May 2, 1961.

Objected

The prosecution had contended that Hawkins fatally beat Fox last New Year's Day because Fox objected to Hawkins' attentions to a sister of Fox's wife. The body of Fox was found in a snow-covered cornfield on the outskirts of Waterloo.

Hawkins' Christmas dinner was the regular prison holiday meal—roast turkey with oyster dressing, giblet gravy, buttered asparagus, salad, snowflake potatoes, rolls, butter, cranberry sauce, coconut creme pie, coffee and milk.

Bennett said Hawkins apparently enjoyed the dinner, although he asked for a second helping of turkey.

Transferred

After he finished the holiday meal, Hawkins was transferred to the penitentiary's regular cellblock. Bennett said he probably would be assigned duties in the prison's furniture or textiles industries.

Hawkins served a previous term in the penitentiary and one of his duties at that time was sweeping out the death row where he has been confined since last February.

In granting the commutation for Hawkins, Loveless said, "it was my conclusion that the interests of justice and the deterrence of crime in Iowa would not be served by hanging an obscure, uneducated Alabama Negro."

Loveless, who opposes capital punishment, had received numerous letters and appeals from clergymen asking him to spare Hawkins from the gallows.

In My Hands

"I have felt that the fate of this man was in my hands," Loveless said, "and I have acted in accordance with my deepest convictions."

Hawkins was the second condemned prisoner to have a death sentence commuted by Loveless. In 1957 he commuted the sentence of Warren Nutter, Freeport, Ill., to a life term.

Nutter had been sentenced to hang for the slaying of a policeman at Independence. He was only 18 at the time of the crime.

Hawkins and Nutter were the only two persons sentenced to death during Loveless' 4 years in office.

Rattler Strikes, Kills, Texas Tot

Stanton, Tex. (AP)—A 2-year-old boy, bitten by a rattlesnake Christmas eve while gathering tumbleweed for a bonfire, died in a local hospital.

Clifton Chandler, of Farmers Branch north of Dallas, was bitten in the yard of his grandparents' west Texas ranch home near Big Spring.

As he removed one tumbleweed a rattler struck him in the knee.

Back Home For The Holiday Season

Arriving a few days ago to spend the holiday season in Lincoln were Mr. and Mrs. Bennett M. Martin and their daughter, Cathy, of Denver, Colo. Mr. and Mrs. Martin, the house guests of Mr. Martin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett S. Martin, also are visiting Mrs. Martin's mother, Mrs. Lou Nellis.

The mid-week brought Mrs. W. Andrew Bunten, Jr., and her two children, Ann and Andrew Bunten, III, from Cheyenne, Wyo., to spend the holidays as the guests of Mrs. Bunten's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elsworth DuTeau. Mr. Bunten joined his family in Lincoln in time for Christmas Eve.

"It's a double "Merry Christmas" at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Swingle. Their two sons-in-law and daughters, and two small grandchildren are home for the holidays.

Chatter in the Corridor

BY LUCY MUTCHIE

Victory, victory! was the chant.

Friday night Pius X won from the "Pioneers" of Nebraska City. The starters of Coach Jim Kubacki's varsity team were Larry Arth, Larry Champoux, Joe Gaughan, Joel Kortus, and Dave Minnick.

The reserve team, coached by Vince Aldrich, also challenged the reserves of Nebraska City. Impressive in the eyes of the coach are Bob Byington, Tom McGovern, Bob Sawdon, Mike Glynn, Jim Sullivan, John Schneider, Joe Miller, Floyd Jones, and Bernard Rempe. The reserves consist of all sophomores, and they have been victorious in all their basketball games this season.

Bells ring! The Christmas fad at Pius is BELLS worn in your hair or on your shoes.

The Christmas decorations color the rooms of the school. Each room has a decorated tree, nativity scene, or other sayings of "Blessed Christmas."

Spreading the joy of the yuletide season, carolers sang at The Most Reverend Bishop James V. Casey's residence, Madonna Nursing Home, St. Elizabeth Hospital, Veteran's Hospital, and Pius X Convent.

Sopranos of the group are Rosemary Janousek, Judy Pollak, Margaret Anthony, Jane Irvin, Betty Miller, Kathy Glynn, Carol Hauschild, Rosalene Rejda, and Judy Kollars.

Altos are Joan Knox, Lucy Mutchie, Jean Kezeor, Joann Adams, and Sandy Riley. Male voices include those of George Tinius, Francis Hamsa, Paul Wheeler, Bob Dubas, Tom Adams, and Jim DeMars.

The carolers were chosen from the 120-voice glee club, conducted by Sister Mary Thomas Aquinas B.V.M.

The Junior class sponsored a dance last Friday with "Santa's Sock Hop" as the theme. Fun, prizes, treats, and Santa Claus himself came all the way from the North Pole. Elmo Schmitt, the yearbook and newspaper photographer of Pius, was disguised as the jolly St. Nick.

Town Talk

—Although this may be the far side of the Christmas week end, Christmas still is the paramount topic of conversation with everyone—including us. So we'll begin with news that began before Christmas day — Christmas Eve, for instance, when Mr. and Mrs. Bennett S. Martin went to Omaha to spend Christmas Eve with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Martin and their son, Bruce.

On Christmas day Mr. and Mrs. Martin entertained at dinner at their home when their out of town guests, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Bennett M. Martin and their daughter, Cathy, were Mrs. Martin's brother and sister-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bridgmon and their children, Donna, Judy, Sherry, Stephen, Tommy and Bob.

In the afternoon the family group was joined by Mrs. Bennett M. Martin's mother, Mrs. Lou Nellis, and Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson, their son Roger, and daughter, Patricia, who were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Martin.

☆ ☆ ☆

—Returning home early last week to spend the holidays was Miss Dee Hale who is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Al H. Hale. Miss Hale, a Kappa Alpha Theta at Nebraska, now is attending the University of Arizona.

DEAR ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have been a widow for two years and have a 12-year-old son who is causing me problems. He won't do any work around the house, talks back to me and does as he pleases. I never spanked any of my children (I have 5) as their father always took care of that with a razor strap which still hangs in the bathroom. I don't use it because I wouldn't know how hard or even how long to hit him. Also, I doubt if it would do much good through his thick trousers and I can't take his pants off, (can I?). Is he too old to be spanked now?

NEEDING ADVICE

DEAR NEEDING: Once your child gets away with talking back and doing as he pleases, it is almost impossible to regain authority. I don't recommend striking a child, with or without trousers. The boy needs the friendship, understanding and discipline of an adult male. Perhaps a relative, teacher or clergyman could guide him.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a married man of 34 who would leave a beautiful, young wife for an old, wrinkled grandmother of 47? Don't tell me that he is looking for "mother love" because his mother is still living. This man is in my family or I wouldn't care what he did. I know it is not unheard of for a man to leave his wife for a YOUNGER woman, but I have never heard of a man preferring an older worn-out one, have you?

FLABBERGASTED

DEAR FLAB: Don't assume that because a man's mother is living he has had his share of "mother love." I don't condone leaving a wife for ANY woman — younger or older — but his reasons are usually younger than springtime and as old as the hills.

☆ ☆ ☆

DEAR ABBY: I changed doctors and now I would rather have the first one. The first one knows I went to another doctor. Could I change back without having to explain anything? I have more faith in the first one than the second one. I will not go back to the second one if I can help it.

DUMMY

DEAR DUMMY: No explanations are necessary. Ask your first doctor for an appointment.

Christmas Wedding

At an afternoon ceremony solemnized on Christmas Day, Dec. 25, Miss Fauneil Gutzmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gutzmann of Norfolk, became the bride of Anthony Taylor Smith of San Jose, Calif., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Smith of Peterborough, England. Poinsettias and lighted white candles against a background of evergreens and palms decorated the chancel of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Norfolk for the service, which was read by the Rev. Hugo Fritze.

Mrs. Ralph Hayward of Columbus was her sister's matron of honor and the maid of honor was Miss Marleen Gutzmann, Norfolk, also a sister of the bride. The attendants wore alike frocks of velvet in holly green designed in the after-five length.

Serving as best man was Ralph Hayward of Columbus, and seating the guests were Lon Marotz, Lane Marotz and Loy Marotz.

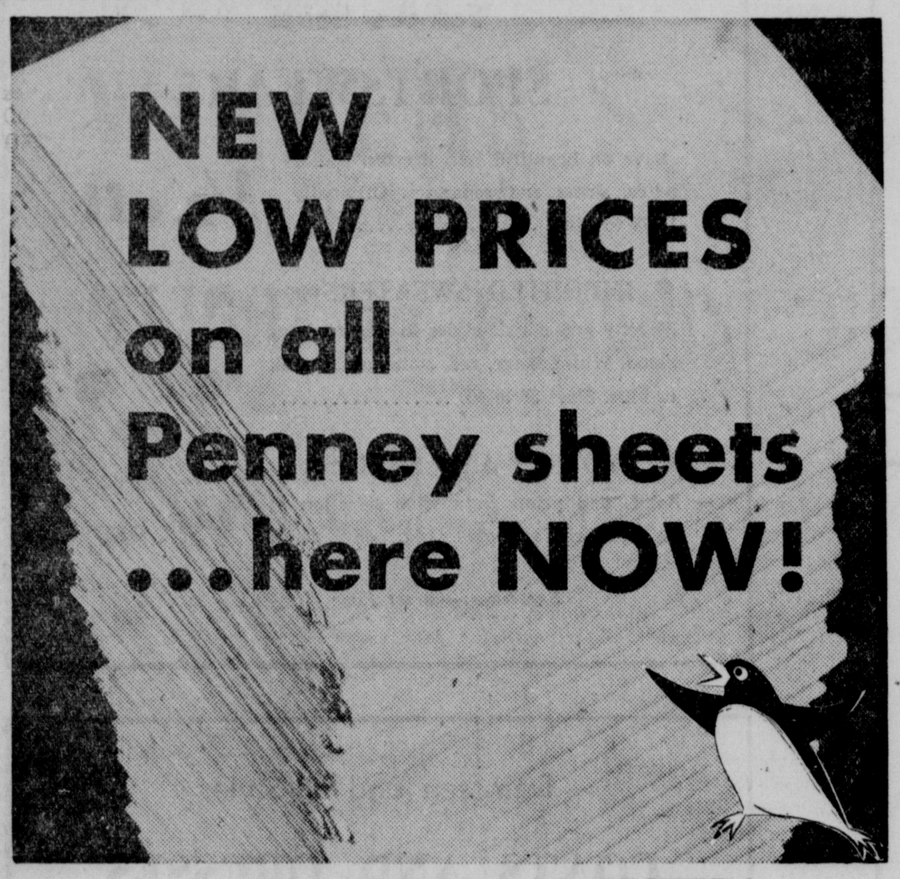

The bride appeared in a gown of white silk taffeta touched with imported lace. The decolletage of the snug basque was bordered with the lace which continued over the shoulders into the bracelet-length sleeves, and the bouffant skirt extended into a chapel train.

The couple will reside in San Jose. A graduate of the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority, Sigma Alpha Iota and Pi Lambda Theta, Mrs. Smith received her Masters Degree at the University of Arizona and is teaching in the San Jose Schools. The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of London and is a member of the Royal Academy of Aeronautics.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	2 ♣	2 ♥
2 ♠	Pass	5 ♠

Opening lead — four of hearts.

Here is a remarkable hand played in a rubber bridge tournament by the French expert, the late Pierre Albarran.

The artificial two club bid requested South to bid a four-card major suit if he had one, and Albarran obliged by saying two spades.

For reasons unknown, North leaped to five spades. This could hardly be the right bid, since a slam was unlikely to be made opposite a 16 to 18 point notrump. Albarran having no values in excess of those previously expressed, had the good sense to pass.

West led a heart and East won with the queen, South falsecarding the ten. East was afraid to return a heart because declarer might have had J-10 alone, and shifted to a club.

Albarran took the ace and drew all the trumps, learning in the process that East had started with four spades as well as six hearts. When declarer then cashed the king of clubs, everybody following suit, twelve of East's cards were fully accounted for, and it became likely that East had started with precisely one diamond.

Accordingly, Albarran led a low diamond, and, when West followed low, played the nine from dummy. East was forced to take the jack and return a heart.

Thus, Albarran, who had started with only nine sure tricks, now had a tenth trick to show because of the forced heart return.

The eleventh trick followed shortly when this became the position:

North
♦ A 4
♣ 4

West
♦ Q 10 8
♣ Q

East
Immaterial

South
♥ J
♦ K 7 5

Albarran cashed the ace of hearts and there was nothing West could discard that would prevent South from taking the rest of the tricks.

Wedding Attendants Announced

Announcing the members of her bridal party this morning is Miss Rosemary Eitel, who will become the bride of Harry Orput on Tuesday, Dec. 27. The 8 o'clock ceremony will be solemnized at Grace Lutheran Church.

Attending her sister as maid of honor will be Miss Kathleen Eitel of Kansas City, Mo., and the bridesmaid will be Miss Nancy Deer. Mrs. Tom Gartner and Mrs. James Arntzen will be bridesmatrons, and the junior bridesmaid will be Miss Becky Churchill of Rancho Cordova, Calif.

Miss Celayne Jones of Minneapolis will be the flower girl.

Serving as best man will be Don Hays, and seating the guests will be James Arntzen, Tom Gartner, Cecil Heitbrink, and Russell Meyers.

Recent pre-nuptial courtesies for the soon-to-be bride included a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Clarence Deer, and a kitchen shower for which Mrs. Gartner and Miss Esther Stuenkel were hostesses.

ASK— Dorothy Draper

There was an original ad in the paper the other day. It said, "Little Miss Muffet sat on a tuffet. Now why would she do a thing like that when there are so many beautiful and comfortable . . . " Then it mentioned a well-known brand of convertible sofa bed.

I was interested not only in the catchy-worded ad but in the thought it provoked. Don't you wonder why people buy some of those awkward looking uncomfortable species of "tuffets" or furniture when there are such well designed and comfortable pieces in the market today?

Recently I visited a smartly decorated house with not a comfortable place to sit anywhere. No doubt we have become spoiled by foam cushions and bouncy upholstery but hard benches and high backed Spanish chairs, no matter how ornately carved can be endured for just so long.

When you go looking for a new sofa or chair, buy it not only for its good looks and proportions, but do sit and try it out to see if it is low enough, high enough, deep enough, comfortable enough for you and your guests!

Mrs. A.R.P. asks:
"Have you ever used a pair of double beds in a bedroom? We now have one bed and find it much too small for sleeping comfort. I could buy another set and utilize our present bed, sheets, etc. without going to the expense of getting a new set of twin beds and linens. The bedroom is 14x15'. Also, my living room walls are white, blue carpeting, blue sofa, blue and lime plaid chair and a pair of plum chairs. These are my favorite colors and I would like to carry the same scheme into the bedroom. How can I accomplish this and have a sense of continuity and yet avoid a look of repetition?"

Dear Mrs. A.R.P:
It seems to me that two double beds in a 14'x15' room would make it a bit crowded. It might work if you push them together to look like an oversized Hollywood bed. For your bedroom, why not have white walls, plum carpeting, white bedspread with blue and lime plaid dust ruffle. Chairs in blue. This would incorporate your living room colors but have a different look.

Mrs. W.C.F. asks:
"Could I paint a harvest table red?"

Dear Mrs. W.C.F.:
Why not? I saw one finished in red lacquer that was the high spot of the room. Painted furniture is having a big revival right now.

Activity Galore In Suburbia

EASTRIDGE

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Art Johannes this holiday week end have included Mrs. Johannes' brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. R. D. Doss, and their three children of Grand Forks, S.D.

Also visiting at the Johannes home were Mr. and Mrs. Z. O. Adams, Jr., and their five daughters who reside in Rantoul, Ill. And we should add that the Adams family will be moving to Lincoln to live in the near future.

Motoring to Wilsonville for the Christmas holiday week-end were Mrs. Frances Cole and her sons, Don and Monte. They visited members of the family there.

Visitors at the suburbia home of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Carothers this Christmas have been Dr. Carothers' parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Carothers of Broken Bow.

Then we heard that Mrs. Halma Mastalir of Pierce arrived in Lincoln Thursday to spend Christmas with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mastalir, and their children.

Other houseguests at the Mastalir home this week end included Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clark who arrived Christmas Eve from their home in McCook.

Yesterday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Stehly entertained at home at a 4 o'clock to 6 o'clock open house and canape party for their friends.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you. EAGLES, PACKERS CLASH TODAY

--Green Bay's Overland Attack Rates 2-Point Edge In NFL Playoff--

Philadelphia (UPI)—A battle between the bruisingly-effective ground attack of the Green Bay Packers and the deadly passing of the Philadelphia Eagles' Norm Van Brocklin shapes up today in "The Game" for the National Football League championship.

Record Payoff

The two "hungry" teams, who bounced from last place to first in 3 short seasons, will be battling for a record payoff, estimated at near $5,000 apiece for each winning player.

A sell-out crowd in excess of 65,000 is expected to brave bitterly cold but fair weather for the nationally-televised game at Franklin Field.

Also attending will be league officials and club owners on hand for the annual draft meeting here Tuesday.

The game, which will start at 11 a.m. (CST) because the stadium has no lights in the event of a "sudden-death" playoff, will be blacked out in a 75-mile radius.

Uphill Fight

The Packers, 8-4, finished 4th in the league in total yardage but waged an uphill fight, powered by the brilliant running of Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor, to clince the Western Division title in their last league game.

It is this offensive threat spearheaded by a powerful forward wall that has made the Packers a slight, two-point favorite against the home-team Eagles.

The Eagles, 10-2, dropped their opening league game to the Cleveland Browns and then winged 9 straight victories on the passing arm of quarterback Van Brocklin to clinch the Eastern Division title two weeks before the season ended.

The big Dutchman is undoubtedly the Eagles' main offensive weapon.

His passing, with favorite targets of halfback Tommy McDonald and ends Pete Retzlaff and Bobby Walston, accounted for 29 touchdowns this season.

Another big factor in the Eagles' success was their stellar pass defense which led the league with 30 interceptions.

Because of this, the Packers are expected to call mostly on Hornung and Taylor, the offensive twins who helped the Western champs to a total of 4,025 yards.

Top Scorer

Hornung was the league's leading scorer this year with 176 points and Taylor the second leading rusher with 1,101 yards in 230 carries.

Also to be reckoned with is the passing of Green Bay quarterback Bart Starr, a 5-year veteran, who can toss deadly aerlials when the defense sets itself for the rushing attack.

The Eagles' running is handled by rookie Ted Dean, now at fullback in place of the injured Clarence Peaks who may see spot play; newly-founded speedster Timmy Brown, an ex-Packer, and halfback Bill Barnes.

Brown, used mainly on kickoff and punt returns for most of the season, was inserted as an offensive halfback after the Eagles clinched the title and scored 4 touchdowns in the last two games.

After No. 3

The Eagles will be shooting for their 3rd championship, the last coming in 1949 when they beat the Los Angeles Rams.

Green Bay's last championship appearance was in 1944 when it beat the New York Giants, 14-7.

YANKS, REBELS BATTLE TONIGHT

NU's Pat Fischer Starter For North

Miami (AP)—North and South renew rivalry dating back to 1948 when they meet in the 13th annual Shrine All-Star football game tonight in the Orange Bowl, and there is no accurate yardstick that might forecast the outcome.

The kickoff is scheduled for 7:15 p.m. (CST) and a crowd of more than 30,000 is expected. There is no radio or television coverage.

Too often a supposed underdog has come out on top. The hastily-assembled college seniors, many of whom will enter the pro ranks, have had less than a week of working together.

A stout, accurate passing arm usually is "the difference," offsetting the lack of time to develop polished running attacks.

That it will be largely a passing game again this year is assured, as both teams have throwers with fine records. North will rely on Army's Tom Blanda and Tulsa's Jerry Keeling. South has one of the nation's best in VMI's Howard Dyer.

South Leads 7-4

South holds a 7-4 edge in the series, with one game being tied. Last year North sailed to a 24-14 victory on the arm of Army's Joe Caldwell.

In 1958 it was South in front with Baylor's Buddy Humphrey throwing 5 touchdown passes.

Dale Hall of Army and Bump Elliott of Michigan are in charge of the North Squad of 24 players. Paul (Bear) Bryant of Alabama and Darrell Royal of Texas are coaching the South for the game, which will be played under pro rules permitting free substitution.

The rival coaches indicated they will substitute by units as much as possible, and have split their squads into offensive and defensive teams, although several players are destined to play both ways.

Bryant Newcomer

Hall and Elliott coached the victorious North team last year. Royal was one of the coaches of the South team that won in 1958. It is Bryant's first appearance in the game.

Nebraska's Pat Fischer, who starred in Cornhusker triumphs over Hall's Army team and Royal's Texas club this season, will start for the North at offensive left halfback.

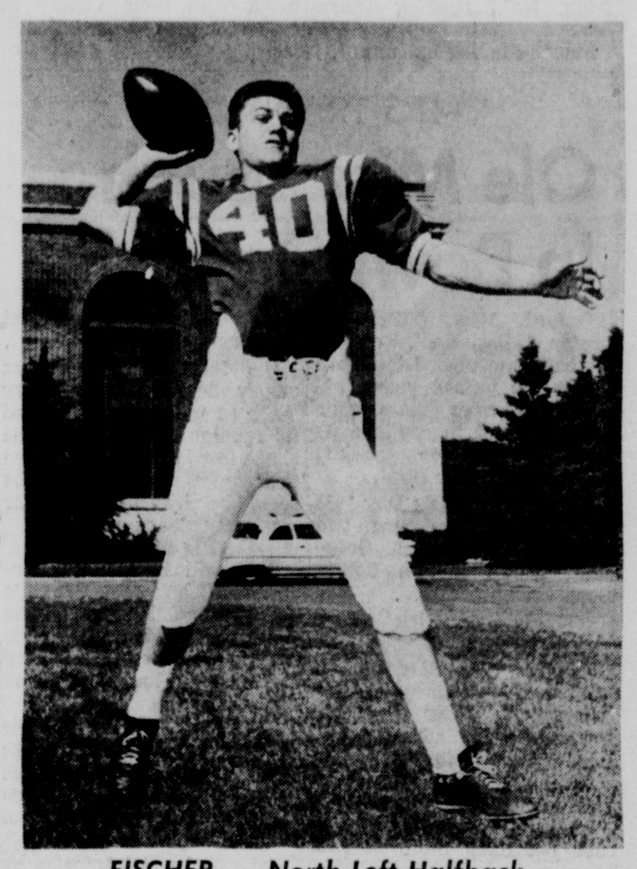

The offensive lineups:

NORTH

SOUTH

Ends, Gerald Burch, Georgia Tech; John Schroeder, North Carolina. Tackles, John O'Dea, Miami; Charles Linning, Miami. Guards, Al Dalton, Southern Methodist; Jim Windham, Houston. Center, Bob Barbiere, George Washington. Quarterback, Howard Dyer, VMI. Halfbacks, Don Kern, VMI; Bud Whitehead, Florida State. Fullback, Bobby Nay, Vanderbilt.

Missouri Arrives In Miami; Teams Begin Drills Today

Miami, Fla (AP) — Big, burly and looking every inch like football players, the Missouri squad arrived here by chartered plane Sunday afternoon for its Orange Bowl game Jan. 2 against Navy.

There were 57 athletes in the party, and 10 wives of players.

The Navy players straggled in in small groups after holidays at home. Ace back Joe Bellino, tackle Dick Fitzgerald, tackle Ron Testa and end Frank Dattilo were the first to arrive, coming in from Boston. The entire Navy squad had been ordered to report by Sunday night.

Dan Devine, who coached the Missourians in their losing game with Georgia here last Jan. 1, again is in charge of the Tigers and although he said his team "didn't come here to lose," he remarked it would have to play its best game.

"Navy is underrated," he said. "The Middies are agile and quick and team athletes. Bellino is everything they say he is and is also a heck of a good kid.

"But they can beat you without Bellino. Navy has done a fine job of recruiting and has a well-coached team. I think Navy is better than Georgia was a year ago. In fact, if Navy and Minnesota were to play I'd bet on Navy.

"And don't overlook Navy's Hal Spooner. He's a really great passer."

While praising the abilities of Navy, the boyish-looking Devine didn't pass up the chance to plug his own athletes, and left the impression they would be able to take care of themselves pretty well.

"We have a well balanced team," he said. "The boys have been through a lot together. We played some fine games, particularly against Oklahoma, which I consider the best game I have seen. I understand we are the favorites Jan. 2. I'd rather be the underdog. We've won a lot of games as the underdog."

Among players making the trip was Paul R. Garvis, whose car was involved in a fatal accident at Staunton, Ill., early Sunday. Garvis was cut by flying glass and taken to a Staunton hospital but later caught the plane in St. Louis for the flight here.

Both Navy and Missouri were scheduled for their first workouts today, Missouri at Miami Stadium and Navy at the University of Miami practice field.

Woman Dies In Mishap Involving Mizzou Star

Staunton, Ill. (AP)—A car driven by star guard Paul Garvis of the University of Missouri football team hit and killed a woman near Staunton early Sunday.

Garvis, 20, was slightly injured by flying glass. He was treated and released at a Staunton hospital.

No charges were filed against him.

The dead woman was identified by Illinois state police as Beatrice Roberts, 29. Police said they were told she was a recently discharged WAC sergeant from Fort McClellan, Ala., on her way home to Detroit.

State trooper Charles Birk Jr. said her car had gone into a ditch on an icy road and she was walking along U.S. Highway 66 to get help.

Garvis said she was walking in the middle of the highway and he did not see her in time to stop.

Garvis was driving from his home in Saybrook, Ill., to St. Louis to join the Missouri team which will play Navy in the Orange Bowl Jan. 2.

Aussies Take 1-0 Cup Lead

Sydney, Australia (Monday) (AP)—Neale Fraser held his fire for one set, then turned loose his big blasts to whip towering Orlando Sirola, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2, today and send Austrialia into a 1-0 lead over Italy in the Davis Cup challenge round.

Rod Laver, a little redhead who swept the U.S. grass court circuit last summer, met Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli in the second singles match of the best-of-5 series.

Fraser, the U.S. and Wimbledon champion, looked like a boxer feeling out his opponent during the first set. He played cautiously, and stayed at the baseline trying to solve Sirola's big service.

The crowd of about 14,000 at White City Stadium—many of them Italian immigrants—thought an upset was in the making when Sirola broke through in the 10 game to win the first set.

Sirola managed to win only one more game in the set and from that point on, he was strictly on the defensive.

Knights Win Again

Indianapolis (AP) — Omaha took its 4th straight International Hockey League game Sunday night, defeating Indianapolis 3-1.

It was the 8th consecutive loss for the Chiefs, last place team in the Eastern Division.

HOLE-IN-ONE FOR CHRISTMAS

Archie J. McIlnay of Central City gave himself an unusual Christmas present Sunday—a hole-in-one at Thunder Ridge golf course in Lincoln.

McIlnay, playing with Lincolnite J. Donovan Crook on the 9-hole sand greens layout, holed his tee shot on the par-3 150-yard 5th hole.

McIlnay used a 5-iron on the shot, which was his first hole-in-one. He is 57.

All-American Contest Matches Speed, Heft

. . . MAJOR SCHOOLS FAVORED FOR 3RD WIN

Tucson, Ariz. (AP)—The small schools are hoping their speed will make up for the major schools' overall power in the game today.

The big schools' squad, coached by John Michelosen of Pittsburgh and Jim Larue of Arizona, is favored by a touchdown to win the bowl for the 3rd time in a row.

Good Chance

But coach Dave Nelson of Delaware insists his small school team has a good chance for victory.

"We've got some pretty fast boys. I think we have a chance, a good chance. Every time they put air in the football, there's chance for an upset."

The small schools are counting heavily on the passing of Pal Terhes of Bucknell, rated the No. 1 quarterback in the East for schools of any size this fall.

Terhes has a couple of 6-foot-5 ends as receivers. The combination could give the small schools an edge in passing.

"Our fellows aren't letting the big names scare them," Terhes said. "We have just as much size as they do, probably more, and I think we have a good chance to beat them."

Both Michelosen and Nelson were pleased with the speed with which their squads responded with less than a week of practice. The coaches said both teams were in top physical condition.

Both said they felt their squads would be able to score. Both coaches were concerned over defense.

T Offenses

Both squads use T-formations, ideal for passing.

Michelosen said, "The boys have been catching real good. Their timing is now satisfactory."

Dick Norman of Stanford, who led the nation in passing and total offense in 1959, will be the starting big school quarterback.

The big schools are better balanced in overall power, with a pair of hard-hitting fullbacks in Art Baker of Syracuse and Jim Cunningham of Pitt.

Ideal football weather, with the temperature in the 70s and no wind, is forecast. A crowd of 15,000 is expected.

Long, Hanks Appear Most Valuable Picks

Center Frank Long of Culver-Stockton College and Forward Jim Hanks of the Colorado College Tigers appear pre-tourney favorites for the Wesleyan Holiday Basketball tournament most valuable player trophy.

Tourney shooting gets underway Thursday evening at 7 p.m. at Lincoln's Pershing Auditorium with Colorado College meeting Omaha's Indians. The evening's other semi-final sends the Culver-Stockton quint against host Nebraska Wesleyan University at 8:45.

Long, a 6-5 senior, scored 34 points in one outing this season and has a 6-game total of 135 points for a 23.5 average. Hanks, a 6-2 senior, is the CC leading scorer on a 22.5 average after eight games.

Other contenders for the most valuable player award include Omaha University Forward Joe Neuberger, Forward Jim Munford for Nebraska Wesleyan and another Colorado College standout, veteran Forward Jim Wexels.

Neuberger, a 19-year-old guard, leads the Indians scoring with an 11.7 average and a total of 82 points as ex-Michigan Stater Sonny Means continues his rebuilding job for Omaha.

Munford is the Lincoln Northeast product who helped Wesleyan to a fine season in 1959-60 but was in the background to Rudy Stoehr's outstanding scoring abilities. The tall junior forward has had several top games this year and seems Wesleyan's best bet for individual honors.

Wexels, averaging 12 points for the high-scoring Colorado gang, has come along for Coach "Red" Eastlack's unit in several recent wins.

No Clearcut Favorite In Big 8 Tournament

By Don Bryant
Star Sports Editor

Kansas City, Mo. — The 15th annual Big 8 basketball tournament opens here tonight with at least half—and maybe more — of the entrants having a shot at the title.

Edge to KS?

No clear cut favorite has been established in the early cage going this year, although Kansas State is being given a slight nod.

Kansas, the pre-season league favorite, has been in-and-out to date, posting a 4-3 record, identical to that of the Nebraska Cornhuskers who were tabbed for 8th before the firing opened.

With the Jayhawks showing inconsistency, there's a good chance for either K-State, Oklahoma or Colorado to emerge on top. And a hot streak by Nebraska, Oklahoma State or Iowa State could throw Municipal Auditorium crowds into a tizzy.

K-State has a 6-2 record and is working on a 5-game winning streak. Joining the Wildcats at the top of the heap are the Sooners and the Buffaloes, both carrying 7-1 marks.

Tonight's action matches Kansas State and Oklahoma State at 7:30, with Colorado and Oklahoma tipping-off at 9:30 p.m.

Jerry Bush's Cornhuskers open Tuesday's first-round action by meeting Kansas at 7:30 p.m.

Iowa State and Missouri will wind up the Tuesday slate at 9:30 p.m.

Afternoon Play

First round losers will commence afternoon play Wednesday, while the first round winners will play Wednesday night.

Bush's Huskers will bus to Kansas City this morning and hold a short workout at the Auditorium.

Monday's advance activities include a noon luncheon at the Hotel Muehlebach, with Big 8 coaches offering capsule assessments of their teams.

Top College Clubs In Holiday Action

...TOURNAMENTS FOR ALL THIS WEEK

By Associated Press

Most of the nation's top-ranked basketball teams and many of the other contenders for national honors fire away in tournaments this holiday week.

The tourneys and other top-notch pairings will wreck many an unbeaten record and furnish a pretty good line on college basketball's who's who after one month of competition.

The Eastern College Athletic Conference's Holiday Festival tourney at New York's Madison Square Garden starting Tuesday has 3 in action including the No. 1 in Ohio State (6-0), St. Bonaventure (7-0), No. 3, and St. John's (6-0), No. 6.

Three more of the elite group, Duke (7-0), No. 8, and North Carolina State (6-1), and North Carolina (4-2) are in the Dixie Classic at Raleigh, N.C., starting Thursday.

Fourth-ranking Indiana (5-1) journeys to California for the Los Angeles Classic starting Wednesday. Eighth-ranked Detroit (5-2) competes in the Motor City Classic at Detroit, also opening Wednesday.

That leaves only 3 of the top 11 out of tourney action but two of them, Bradley (8-0) second-ranked, and 5th-ranked Louisville (9-0) have terrific battles on their hands.

Auburn (5-0) 9th ranked, is idle until Jan. 2 when it meets Florence State.

Bradley faces potent, unbeaten Drake (6-0), conqueror of Michigan, Dayton and Wyoming, at Des Moines on Tuesday. Louisville plays Brigham Young Tuesday and then takes on the redhot St. Louis Billikens (7-1) Saturday night.

The Billikens, beaten only by Ohio State, have won 6 straight since that loss. They made a big bid for a ranking berth with their victory in the Kentucky Invitational, beating California 54-53 and Kentucky 74-72, both in overtime.

New York's Holiday Festival will feature the only two non-graduating All-Americas of last season in Ohio State's great Jerry Lucas and springy Tony Jackson of St. John's as well as Tom Stith, of St. Bonaventure, second-high scorer among the nations major colleges on a 31.3 average.

If Ohio State and St. John's win their openers Tuesday Lucas and Jackson will face each other in the semifinals on Thursday. The final is scheduled for Saturday.

In the Los Angeles Classic opening Wednesday, Indiana's first opponent is Stanford. Other pairings include UCLA-Michigan State, Iowa-California, and Minnesota-Southern California.

The Dixie Classic's first round Thursday matches Maryland-North Carolina, Villanova-North Carolina State, State, Marquette - Wake Forest, and Duke-Wyoming.

Detroit opposes Yale and Xavier (O.) meets Colorado State in the openers of the Motor City Tuesday.

Big 8 Starts

The honor of starting off the holiday jamboree on Monday goes to the big 8 at Kansas City and the West Coast Athletic Conference at San Francisco.

The opening Big 8 pairings are Kansas State-Oklahoma State, and Oklahoma-Colorado on Monday, and Kansas-Nebraska, and Iowa State-Missouri on Tuesday.

In the WCAC, Santa Clara meets College of Pacific and San Francisco opposes Pepperdine on Monday, and on Tuesday it's Los Angeles Loyola-San Jose, and St. Mary's (Calif.)-Fordham.

In last week's action, the Big 11 collectively posted a 14-1 record. The only loser was Detroit, which first beat Gonzala 80-75, then bowed to Ohio State 84-73.

Gopher Boys Rest On Christmas Day

. . . GUESTS AT HOLIDAY PARTY

Pasadena, Calif. (AP) — Minnesota's Rose Bowl-bound Gophers, wearied and aching after a week of high-speed training in the California heat, enjoyed a relaxed Christmas Sunday.

Guests at an annual Tournament of Roses holiday party, they dined on Turkey and set aside the tensions of their preparation for their bowl appearance against Washington Jan. 2. The Gophers are now at the midway point of their buildup for Minnesota's first bowl game.

"They're tired, and a lot of them have bruises and sore feet," said Coach Murray Warmath. "Their overall conditioning is more than I could've expected, but they now have to develop that sharp edge of readiness we hope to have by game time."

Ahead of the national champions lies 3 or 4 days of intensive work, the period Warmath says will be crucial for his team.

The Gopher camp was mildly concerned over the condition of two reserve ends, Jack Park and John Campbell, both of whom suffered ankle injuries in Saturday's scrimmage.

Warmath said, however, that both are expected to be in action in a couple of days.

"More than anything Saturday, I was happy with the way we kicked the ball," Warmath said. "Sandy Stephens, Tom Robbins, Jerry Jones, and Larry Johnson gave us the best all-around kicking we've seen out here."

Stephen's return to top punting form was especially heartening for Minnesota. The team's No. 1 kicker all season, he suffered a knee stiffness several days ago and hadn't punted since early last week.

Catholics on the team attended Christmas services Sunday at St. Phillips church in Pasadena. Protestants worshiped at Emmanuel Lutheran church.

Each squad member received a pair of binoculars at the Christmas party as a gift from the Tournament of Roses.

Tops All-Stars

Lexington, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky's Bill Lickert led all nominees in balloting for the University of Kentucky Invitational's all-tournament basketball team.

The 6-4 senior was chosen by all 26 voting newsmen, who also made him a landslide choice for most valuable player with 17 of 26 ballots.

Blue, Gray Impressive In Drills

Montgomery, Ala. (AP) — Blue and Gray squads put in a Christmas afternoon session of practice, mainly on offense, and coaches for both all-star teams said they were well pleased with their charges.

The players from North and South meet Saturday at Montgomery's Cramton Bowl in the 21st annual game.

North head coach Jack Mollenkopf of Purdue said the Yankees divided their time almost evenly between passing and running plays, with Bernie Allen of Purdue and Dale Betty of Maryland alternating at quarterback.

"The boys are hustling," he said, "and they are picking up the stuff we are trying to reach them real well. They are a sharp bunch and grasp things quickly."

Rebel coach Paul Dietzel of Louisiana State said the South concentrated on kicking in a two-hour session but gave a once-over-lightly to some other phases.

"You have to take a lot for granted" with such a short practice period before the game, Dietzel commented. "But with a team like this you can do it."

Dietzel said high spots of the drill were the punting of Bobby Walden of Georgia and the passing of Georgia's Francis Tarkenton, Kentucky's Jerry Eisaman and Wake Forest's Norman Snead.

COUPLE OF BILL BROWNS

These two Bill Browns met at the North-South College All-Star workout in Miami, Fla. Trying out each other's headgear are Bill Brown, North squad back from Illinois, and Mahi Shrine Potentate Bill Brown of Miami.

FUPE COPS

Brussels (AP) — The F.U.P.E. Sao Paulo basket ball team of Brazil defeated the Belgian Racing Club De Bruxelles in a Christmas basketball tournament 80-61.

East, West Work, Then Have Feast

San Francisco (AP)—The East and West Shrine football teams worked out separately Sunday morning, then got together for Christmas dinner.

The teams will meet under different circumstances Saturday in the annual Shrine East-West game at Kezar Stadium.

The East team worked out at Santa Clara, where coaches timed all the boys for 40-yard sprints.

The fastest proved to be a pair of halfbacks—Herb Adderley of Michigan State and Bernard Casey, a star hurdler from Bowling Green. Each was timed in 4.8 seconds.

The fastest of the other Easterners: end Elbert Kimbrough, Northwestern; tackle Ken Rice, Auburn; guard Mark Manders, Iowa; centers Ross Hawkins, North Carolina, and Dick Grecni, Ohio University; quarterback Lowndes Shingler, Clemson; and fullback Tom Wiesner, Wisconsin. The coaches raced the boys according to positions.

Over at Stanford, West coach Billy Barnes expressed satisfaction after 1½ hours devoted to offense.

He said he was particularly delighted with the running of Tom Watkins, a fullback from Iowa State and Glynn Gregory a halfback from Southern Methodist.

-IT'S TRADITION-

Ole Miss Tough In Bowl Games

Oxford, Miss. (UPI)—Unbeaten Mississippi, college football's most consistent bowl victor the past 4 years, appears to have more than enough talent to continue its winning tradition against Rice in the Sugar Bowl.

Since New Year's Day 1956 the Rebels have won two Sugar Bowl titles, a Gator Bowl crown and a Cotton Bowl championship.

10 Point Pick

Of this season's bowl participants, Ole Miss, at 10 points, is the most heavily favored.

That's a big spread when one considers that Rice's 3 defeats this season were by a total of only 11 points. However, it might be remembered that Louisiana State in two seasons had lost only one game, and that by only one point, before being mangled by the Rebels, 21-0, in last January's Sugar Bowl.

Ole Miss, though it was nearly beaten in an injury siege at mid-season, finished its regular campaign in fine shape to win the Southeastern Conference title. The Rebs should be physically ready for the New Orleans encounter.

Big & Mobile

Rice will be meeting another of Coach John Vaught's big and mobile teams. The starting Ole Miss line averages 219 pounds per man and the backfield has a 199-pound average.

The second unit is only a few pounds lighter. The backs are fast and a number of the linemen were quick enough to play in their high school backfields.

Jake Gibbs, All-America as a 3rd baseman as well as a quarterback, is the team's triple-threat. Elusive afoot and deadly efficient as a punter, Gibbs scored or passed for 17 touchdowns this season. He completed 28 of his last 32 passes.

Versatile Attack

The Mississippi attack is a versatile one. The Rebs scored 6 touchdowns in the air against Houston one week, then came back against Kentucky the following Saturday with 3 scores on the ground.

The Ole Miss defense lacks little. Against Tennessee, the Rebels yielded only 24 yards. The NCAA Service Bureau called it the best defensive performance by any college team this year.

NATS RACK UP 162-100 WIN

Syracuse, N. Y. (AP) — The Syracuse Nationals broke their all-time scoring record Sunday night as they turned in a sensational display of shooting for a 162-100 National Basketball Association victory over the New York Knickerbockers.

After the first period, it never was close, and with 3 minutes left the Nats smashed their previous high of 150 points scored against Philadelphia last year. It also was the largest margin of victory for a Syracuse team in its full NBA tenure, 22 points more than the 44 by which they beat the Knicks 6 years ago.

Led by Dave Gambee and Hal Greer with 24 points each, the Nats bombed the basket at a .538 clip, sinking 65 of 121 shots from the floor.

KU's Bill Bridges Threat To Wilt's Rebound Mark

Kansas City, Mo. (UPI) — Kansas center Bill Bridges is within shooting distance of Wilt Chamberlain's all-time rebounding title in the Big 8 Conference pre-season basketball tournament.

Chamberlain set a record of 118 rebounds in the 1956 and 1957 tournaments while playing for Kansas. Bridges goes into this week's tourney with a total of 81.

The rebounding crown appears to be the only individual championship in jeopardy however.

Chamberlain, now an outstanding performer for the professional Philadelphia Warriors, holds 6 individual records — most points in a single game (45), most points in a tournament (106), most field goals in a single game (18), most field goals in a tournament (40), most rebounds in a tournament (60), and most rebounds in a career (118).

The career scoring record for the tournament is 222 points, set by Kansas' Clyde Lovellette in 1949-1951.

Wayne Hightower, the 6-8 Kansas junior forward made headway towards Lovellette's tournament mark by scoring 63 points in 3 games in last season's meet—his first.

Hightower, Missouri center Charles Henke, Missouri guard Joe Scott, Oklahoma center Brian Etheridge, Colorado forward Wilky Gilmore, and Nebraska forward Jan Wall will be returning this year.

All ranked in the Top 10 scorers in the 1959 tournament.

Hightower and Henkle were 1-2 in tournament rebounding last year.

HUNTER BAGS BEAKY BEAST

A bird bagged by Kenneth Kehler of Culbertson has had Nebraska Game Commission technicians scratching their heads.

The pheasant had an upper beak 2⅜ inches long, and a lower beak extending out 1½ inch. The bird was fat and sleek, indicated he evidently had no trouble obtaining food.

Kehler turned the strange bird over to commission biologist John Sweet of Stuart.

University scientists speculated that a mechanical injury might have caused the aberrant growth.

TOP RODEO ACES GOING AFTER $57,500 IN NATIONAL FINALS

Dallas, Tex. (AP) — The stars of professional rodeo compete for $57,500 in prizes and coveted championships beginning today in the national finals of the sport.

One championship was decided before the national finals began. The winner is Dean Oliver of Boise, Idaho, who is so far ahead in calf roping points that no one can catch him.

Champions are determined by the number of dollars won in any of the 508 sanctioned rodeos this year.

Each dollar won is a point toward a championship, and the national finals money can decide the all-around crown and the titleholders in four events.

The coveted all-raround title will be decided between veteran Harry Tompkins of Dublin, Tex., and young Bob A. Robinson of Tuttle, Idaho, who has skyrocketed to the top in only 3 full years of competition.

Tompkins has 31,218 points while Robinson goes into the finals with 27,386.

Each is entered in two events and could win a maximum of 9,200 points.

Leading in the 4 individual events still undecided are Enoch Walker, Cody, Wyo., saddle bronc riding; Jack Buschbom, Cassville, Wis., bareback bronc riding; Tompkins in bull riding; and Robinson in steer wrestling.

Qualifying for each of the 5 events are 15 cowboys who won the most money in that event.

BULL FIGHTER BUTTS WRITER

Bogota, Colombia (UPI)—Spanish bull fighter Luis Miquel Dominguin has described Nobel Prize-winning writer Ernest Hemingway as a "poor novelist" and an even worse bull fight critic.

If Hemingway had not strayed from his original profession, "he would have made a great newspaperman," Dominguin said.

Dominguin, performing in the bull ring at Cali, said Hemingway liked the role of a bullfight critic "because (such) readers are as profane as is he . . ." But he admitted that Hemingway "has some style . . . and an abundant command of language . . ."

Dominguin said he is not willing to discuss bullring lore with Hemingway "because he understands nothing of such things." The bull fighter and Hemingway have been at odds since the writer spoke poorly of Dominguin's bullring abilities.

ELECTRONIC PREDICTION FOR STAN

Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinal slugger, is shown sitting at an electronic computer which predicted that his 1961 batting average would be .303. The $3 million "brain" digested the records of Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker, Eddie Collins, Nap Lajoie and Honus Wagner in computing Stan's 1961 output. The computer is located at the McDonnell Aircraft Corporation's Automation center. Said Stan, "I'll settle for that."

Mulholland—13-Year-Old Had Visions

Pasadena, Calif. (AP)—"Some day I hope to be a good football player," wrote a 13-year-old Fargo, N.D., schoolboy in 1953. "I hope I am good enough to play in the Rose Bowl."

Dave Mulholland scrawled the note to himself when his most immediate ambition was to make the grade school team. On the front side of the post card was a picture of the Rose Bowl.

The youngster filed the note in his scrapbook and forgot about it.

His mother didn't. A month ago, with Minnesota driving toward a national championship and its first Rose Bowl game, the card was remembered and the words brought back to the dreaming schoolboy.

Dave Mulholland, it turned out, was good enough to play in the Rose Bowl. When the Gophers face Washington Jan. 2, Mulholland will start at halfback for Minnesota.

Mulholland became a star at Fargo Central High School, won a scholarship to Minnesota and fought his way to the first team.

Sideliners here agree no Minnesota running back has looked sharper in Gopher workouts.

The oldest stake race in the United States is The Travers, which was first run at Saratoga in 1864.

'Peace On Earth' Applies In Ring

By Associated Press

It's "Peace On Earth" even in boxing this week.

Only a few bouts were on the national program, headed by a show at Miami Beach, Fla., Tuesday night.

Willie Pastrano, 4th ranking light heavyweight contender from Miami Beach, meets Jesse Bowdry, 10th-ranking contender, in the feature 10-rounder.

In an 8-rounder on the same card, Cassius Clay, 18-year-old Olympic light heavyweight champion from Louisville, faces heavyweight Herb Siler of Miami.

In a rare Sunday afternoon show, middleweights Hank Casey of San Francisco and Rory Calhoun, of White Plains, N.Y., clash at New Orleans, adding boxing to the program for fans attending the Sugar Bowl festivities.

Chico Vejar, 29-year-old middleweight from Stamford, Conn., takes on Jose Gonzalez, a 20-year-old Puerto Rican, in the 10 round feature at New York's St. Nicholas Arena Monday night.

Vejar is unbeaten in his last 4 fights while Gonzalez has an unbeaten streak of 7.

Because of the holiday there will be no television fight on Saturday night.

The week's program:

Monday: At New York (St. Nicholas Arena) Jose Gonzales, Puerto Rico, vs. Chico Vejar, Stamford, Conn., welters, 10.

Tuesday: At Miami Beach, Fla., Willie Pastrano, New Orleans, vs. Jesse Bowdry, St. Louis, heavies, 10, and Cassius Clay, Louisville, Ky., vs. Herb Siler, Miami, heavies, 8.

Sunday, Jan. 1 (afternoon), at New Orleans, Hank Casey, San Francisco, vs. Rory Calhoun, White Plains, N.Y., middles, 10.

Milk Bowl Lures Kid Footballers

Pharr, Tex. (AP)—Competing teams in the annual Milk Bowl football game—Houston Varsity Boys Club and McKeesport, Pa., Little Tigers—will arrive here next week.

McKeesport, with 41 players and 9 coaches, comes in Tuesday. Houston, 30 strong, arrives Wednesday.

The game, which uses players not over 14 years old and 120 pounds, is scheduled Dec. 31.

Challenge System For Starting Berths Has Huskies Guessing

Los Angeles, Calif. (UPI)—Jim Owens is a football coach who keeps everyone guessing—and that includes his own Washington Huskies as they prepare for the Rose Bowl game against Minnesota Jan. 2.

"Right now I wouldn't attempt to name a starting lineup," says Owens. Of course he could, if he had a mind to, come up with a pretty accurate list. But this is his way. He doesn't want any player to feel secure or smug in his job.

During the regular season, Owens stimulated intrasquad competition with what he calls the "challenge system."

If second string guard, J. Shoulderpad Moleskin, thinks he can beat out G. Clethead Nudnick, for the No. 1 job, he goes to the coaching staff and says, "Lemme at dat mug!" (or words and names to that effect.)

Both players don helmets, and while the coaches stand by with pencil and paper to take notes, blast away at each other, head-to-head and nose-to-nose, trying to take the opponent out of a mythical play.

After they've had enough of this sort of mayhem, bucking at each other like a couple of wounded water buffalo, the lads take a rest.

Then a ballplayer is selected to take part in the audition. First one of the competitors gets 3 shots at the ball carrier, who merely tries to save his own skin. Then the other guard takes his 3 shots at the ball carrier. The coaches rate each of the guards on a point system to decide who has the No. 1 job.

Owens has not indulged in the "challenge system" here because he's been too busy getting the squad ready for the Minnesota game, but all the players know the occasion to defend their jobs from some ambitious youngster may come up at any time.

Owens carries his "keep 'em guessing" program to his relations with sports writers. Three Seattle area reporters are allowed to watch practice sessions, but they are a lonely little band and presumably had to go through a rigid security check to qualify.

The young Washington coach will let down the bars at practice Wednesday and admit "foreign" reporters, but the odds are that the Huskies won't do much more than go through calisthenics.

Christmas Messages Note Need For Solution To 'Violence'

By The Associated Press

The Christian world prayed for peace Sunday under the guidance of its temporal and spiritual leaders. Their Christmas messages were keyed to the need for solution of the dangers of violence hanging over mankind.

Family celebrations in Western Europe and America matched the prosperous temper of the times. In Asia, where the Christmas festival is becoming a secular holiday, it was a day of merrymaking. In Communist lands, it was for the most part just another Sunday.

It was a day at home for President Eisenhower and his successor, John F. Kennedy. The Eisenhowers spent their last Christmas in the White House with their son, his wife and the first family's grandchildren. The Kennedy clan gathered at the Palm Beach, Fla., home of Kennedy's father.

Give Peace

At the Vatican Pope John XXIII, the Roman Catholic pontiff, prayed for Christ to "put in the hearts of men the peace they so bitterly seek." He repeated the plea 3 times —at a mass for the Vatican diplomatic corps, in a mass in St. Peter's Basilica and just before giving his blessing to 100,000 gathered in St. Peter's square.

The pontiff gave his first blessings to children — "the promise of tomorrow." And in a powerful voice, he told the throng in Italian: "Good and happy new year." He then repeated the greeting in French, English, German, Spanish, Portuguese, Greek and old Slavic.

In Britain, the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Goeffrey Fisher, bemoaned the "sad state" of the world in his Christmas Day sermon at the majestic Canterbury Cathedral.

"The remedy," said the Anglican primate, "is the same for high or for low . . . recover the nature of Christ's ministry: its essential humility, its rejection of all extravagances, or show or of clamor for rights or selfish fears, its dependence on the simple virtues of the kingdom of God and their endless vitality."

With Airmen

Francis Cardinal Spellman, Roman Catholic Archbishop of New York, celebrated midnight mass with U.S. airmen at Thule Air Force Base in Greenland. It is the Cardinal's custom to spend Christmas with U.S. servicemen aboard and he said he will continue it "as long as our Lord shall keep me strong."

In divided Berlin, two German bishops appealed for a return to Christ. Bishop Otto Dibelius of the German Evangelical Church said in a broadcast that peace would come to the world only with a belief in Christ. The Roman Catholic Bishop of Berlin, Julius Cardinal Doepfner, preached his message in the Church of the Holy Family in the Communist sector.

In Bonn, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said in a broadcast Christmas message: "wherever Communist dictatorship rules, it seeks to exterminate Christianty, which is its strongest and most dangerous foe."

Halt Reverse

Britain's Queen Elizabeth II called on the British Commonwealth to "halt and reverse a growing tendency toward violence and disintegration." She said that "by no stretch of the imagination" was 1960 a happy and successful year for mankind.

In The Hague, Queen Juliana of the Netherlands told her people that mankind forms "one great fraternity . . . let us not forget to behave accordingly."

President Charles de Gaulle of France attended midnight mass at the little church of Colombey - Les - Deux - Eglises, entering by a side door.

While the French president and his family were in the country, Parisians crowded into their beautiful old chruches. Mass was also celebrated under the Seine's bridge De La Tournelle for several hundred hoboes who live along the river that winds through Paris. For millions of more fortunate Frenchmen, midnight mass was followed by a late supper of oysters, turkey and crepes or a Christmas cake.

In Mexico, children broke open the pinata — a papier-mache animal stuffed with gifts. Posadas — processions modeled after the journey of Joseph and Mary to find room at an inn—wound through the streets.

In Chile, a half million toys were distributed to children left homeless by the earthquakes and tidal waves of last May. The toys were collected from donors in Chile and foreign countries and traveled from Santiago to Southern Chile aboard a decorated 12-car Christmas train.

Thirty thousand Italian electrical workers who have been on strike for higher pay in Milan since September staged a quiet Christmas Day demonstration in the city's Duomo Square. Gifts and food for strikers and their families were piled high. Strikers carried placards declaring "we won't give in."

And in Bethlehem's Church of the Nativity, where pilgrims came to celebrate the birth of Christ, an argument developed between monks of the Roman Catholic and the Greek Orthodox churches on whether a Roman Catholic Sacristan could stand on the spot where, according to tradition, Christ was born. The church is under the Greek Orthodox care.

After a sharp argument, a lay official ordered the ceremony to proceed. A meeting was called for Tuesday on the issue and an official said: "there have been quarrels like this for a thousand years. They are very intent about very fine points."

Red Election Up

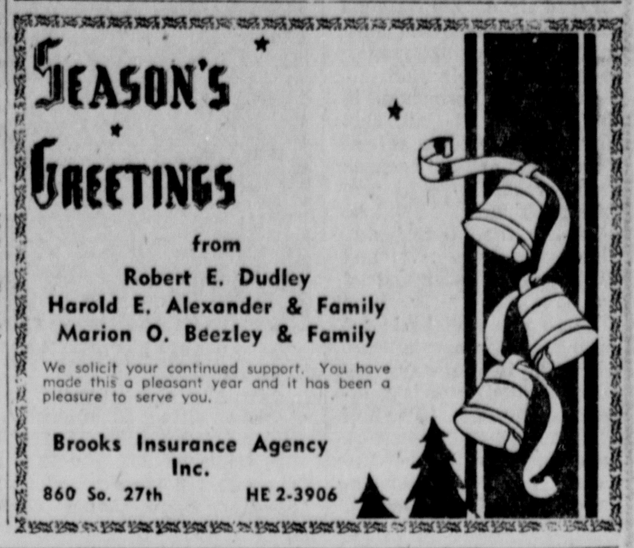

Vienna, Austria (AP) — Communist Romania will hold its third postwar parliamentary election early next year, radio Bucharest announced.

Soviet Bears Out, Flowers Blooming

Moscow (AP)—Flowers were blooming, bears had come out of hibernation and Moscow was curiously snowless Sunday as a result of the warmest winter experienced in Western Russia in at least 70 years.

The mercury climbed to a spectacular high of 34 degrees, compared with last Christmas when the temperature hovered around zero.

The Soviet news agency Tass reported that honeysuckel and violets have begun blooming in some areas while Spring plowing already is under way in Moldavia, which adjoins Communist Romania.

Tiny Band On Tanker Miss Wish

Norfolk, Va. (AP)—The tiny band of men abroad what's left of the broken tanker Pine Ridge kissed a Christmas wish goodbye Sunday, but kept on winning their battle against the sea.

Hopes that two tugs would be able to tow the stern section of the tanker into port at Newport News in time for Christmas dinner went glimmering. Extreme yawing cut the speed of the tow to a mere 3 knots.

Slowly but surely, though, in calm and almost smooth seas 100 miles east-southeast of the Virginia Capes, the tugs Curb and Lamberts Point and their flip-flopping burden came closer to safe harbor.

The Coast Guard said that at the present rate of progress, the tugs, the stern of the Pine Ridge with its 5 hardy seafarers, and the escorting cutter Cherokee should reach port late Monday.

The Curb is pulling the hulk while the Lamberts Point has a line aboard at the opposite end to minimize yawing as best it can.

The Pine Ridge snapped in two last Wednesday in heavy seas 100 miles east of Cape Hatteras, N.C. Seven crewmen including Capt. Clark Snyder, 44, of Haverton, Pa., are missing and presumed dead.

Helicopter pilots from the aircraft carrier Valley Forge lifted 28 of the survivors from the stern of the brokn tanker Thursday after the bow sank.

Engineer Stayed

Chief Engineer John Richart, 36, of Wilmington, Del., stayed behind on the stern to safeguard the salvage rights of the ship's owners. Four men from the Curb joined him Friday and spent Christmas with him there Sunday.

In the last 24 hours the tugs and their tow have made less than 40 miles toward Hampton Roads.

Communication with the five men aboard the hulk was impossible and no one could say what they did this bleak, cold Christmas day.

Top Literary Figures, JFK Fill Program

Washington (UPI) — Some of the nation's leading literary figures — including author John F. Kennedy — are contributing to the 64-page program for the presidential inauguration.

The president-elect has submitted excerpts from his books, plus an article on the presidency based on a speech at the National Press Club in Washington.

His fellow contributors include poets Robert Frost and Carl Sandburg, novelist James Michener, historian Arthur Schlesinger Jr., and such other writers as James McGregor Burns, who is Kennedy's biographer; William S. White, Charles Bartlett, Walter Prescott Webb, Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer, Elizabeth Carpenter, Mary McGregory and Nona Brown.

Leaders

Speaker Sam Rayburn and Edward H. Foley, chairman of the inaugural committee, also are submitting articles.

In releasing this partial list of contributors Sunday, inaugural committee program chairman Milton Kronheim Sr. gave this further rundown on the magazine-size program's contents:

—it will feature the 50-star American flag, the American eagle and the presidential seal. The frontispiece will be a picture of the White House, and inside the back cover will be a picture of the nation's first inauguration, plus the text of the presidential oath.

—there will be background articles on Kennedy, Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson and their wives, accompanied by an official portrait of each.

—one section will be a picture portfolio on national buildings and shrines, with a cover article on the White House. Another will touch on colorful inaugurations of the past, with a panorama of presidential portraits.

—there will be the usual complete guide to all inaugural events.

Among the literary contributions will be a "New England Tribute" by frost; a "Southwestern Tribute" by Webb, professor emeritus of the University of Texas; "Salute to The New States," by Michener, and Sandburg's "Our Enduring Heritage."

Louis W. Horne Funeral To Be In Denver Thursday

Funeral services for Louis W. Horne, who was executive secretary of the Lincoln Community Chest for 33 years, will be held Thursday in Denver.

Mr. Horne

Burial will be at Greeley, Colo.

Mr. Horne, who was 67, died Friday in Palo Alto, Calif. He was born in Greeley, Colo., and was graduated from the University of Nebraska.

Known as the dean of American Community Chest secretaries, Mr. Horne had directed 29 successful campaigns. He retired from the Lincoln Community Chest in 1956, and joined the Denver Community Chest, working as assistant to the director.

A memorial fund in his honor is planned by the Lincoln Foundation, Inc. Mr. Horne served as the Foundation's executive secretary and was largely responsible for the creation of the charitable group in 1955.

Survivors include his wife, Elma of Denver; sons, Robert of Palo Alto, Calif., and Willard of Northvale, N.J., and 5 grandchildren.

2 Children Hurt In 2-Car Crash

Two children were injured Sunday in a two-car accident at Skyline Drive and Sumner. A local doctor treated them for minor bruises and abrasions, police said.

They were listed as Susan Kruger, 11, of 1920 Skyline Dr. and her 4-year-old sister Frances.

They were passengers in a car driven by Mrs. Freda Maxwell, 63, of 6200 Fremont. It was in collision with the auto driven by Durward B. Lantz, 69, of Tecumseh, police said.

CUBA TARGET—

'Rabble' Readies Invasion

Miami, Fla. (AP) — The Miami Herald said Sunday 23 young Americans and nearly 200 Cubans are making final preparations to invade Cuba.

They are in command of Rolando Masferrer, former senator who had unusual powers under Cuban Dictator Fulgencio Batista. Masferrer formed his own army known as "Masferrer's Tigers."

Masferrer is now trying to organize an army to "fight the Communist government of Fidel Castro," the Herald said.

Some U.S. members of the group are now in Miami but most Cubans signed up are in New York, the newspaper said.

Among those the Herald said signed up were:

Tommy Baker, 28, of Dothan, Ala., who said he spent 5 and a half years in Korea fighting Communism.

Alvin Wentz, 21, of Rochester, N.Y., who said he "doesn't like Communism" and wants a better life for himself. He was an Army tank specialist from 1956 to 1959.

Wilbur Gee, 42, who said he was born in this country but now lives in Maracaibo, Venezuela. He was a tugboat operator in Venezuela for 6 years.

Larry Bice, 22, of Columbia, Ohio, who said he spent 3 years as an army MP at Fort Bliss, Tex., and hopes to get a better job in Cuba.

Nicholas Neri, 21, of Rochester, N.Y., who said he always wanted to be in the Army but had an infected ear.

Enrique Delgado Cuza, 23, of Cuba's Oriental Province, who was a soldier in Batista's army for 6 months.

Ken Proctor, 33, of Boston, Mass., who said he was a paratrooper in the U.S. Army for 5 years and has no immediate family. He said he is the leader of the American group headed for Cuba.

Antonio L. Garcia, 36, from Havana, who said he is chief of the entire group. He said he was a Sergeant in Cuba's national police before Castro took over two years ago.

Masferrer was not at the meeting of the invasion force at a barracks on Miami's Flagler Street, the Herald said, but members of the invasion force said he was "boss" and would be on hand for the invasion.

Urea Good Substitute

. . . Cole Reports

"Urea is a useful and satisfactory substitute for part of the protein supplement in a concentrate mixture for dairy cows," according to P. H. Cole, University of Nebraska Extension dairymen.

"However, concentrate rations containing urea will never be superior to rations providing the same amount of protein from ordinary protein supplements."

"Urea is an organic compound that is made synthetically. It can be used as a feed supplement and contains 42 per cent nitrogen which is equivalent to 262 per cent protein.

The dairy cow can utilize this non-protein nitrogen compound and convert it into protein in the rumen," Cole explains.

"One pound of urea and 6 pounds of grain will replace 7 pounds of oil meal."

"Urea fed in excessive amounts may decrease the palatability of a feed and in extreme cases it may be toxic. The general recommendation is that urea should not make up more than 3 per cent of the total concentrate ration or more than 10 per cent of the protein supplement part of the concentrate."

When considering the use of urea, Cole suggests keeping the following points in mind:

—Urea provides no energy. Urea is not efficiently converted into protein unless the rumen bacteria have an ample supply of energy.

—Too large an amount of urea in a concentrate mixture may make the mixture unpalatable.

—Urea has little or no value as a protein supplement for dairy calves.

—Urea is best utilized when it is fed along with homegrown grains. Molasses is not a satisfactory substitute for all the grain.

—If a ration is already sufficiently high in protein there is no point in adding urea to it. Urea is not well utilized by animals if the ration is already high in protein.

—Contrary to some claims the combination of urea and poor roughage is no better than the combination of oil meals and poor roughage. Urea does not increase the digestibility of low quality roughage.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY

Looking For Routing Ways Adds To Travel Pleasure

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

This is the day when the great American humorist, Franklin P. Adams used to counsel people to "do your Christmas swapping early."

In shopping for ways of routing trips, a little extra care and know-how can add greatly to the pleasure of travel.

For example, the dogmatic character of timetables indicated that an air trip from Milwaukee to Tulsa via Chicago necessitated split-second connections, including the use of a helicopter from O'Hare Field in Chicago to Midway Airport. A little thought uncovered a less hectic adventure. Since 40 minutes is the minimum connecting time at Midway Airport between flights, it was found that a slightly later plane from Midway to St. Louis made a good connection for Tulsa.

Similarly, despite all the ballyhoo about the speed of air travel, the arbitrary character of scheduling frequently makes surface transportation a time saver. For example, after a night meeting in Des Moines, a traveler wanted to be in Chicago for business early the next morning. The last plane out at night was scheduled to leave before his engagement was over, and the morning flights would absorb important business time.

But the Rock Island Railroad operates a sleeper, which is due at Des Moines at 1:30 a.m. and which is scheduled to arrive in Chicago at 8:30 a.m. And nostalgic of the early days when rail passenger service was in its glory, the railroad sets out a sleeping car at Des Moines, which can be occupied any time after 9:30 p.m. at the convenience of the passenger.

Although rail lines east of Chicago have had it from air, bus, and automobile competition, and have greatly retrenched on passenger service, it should be recorded that west of Chicago, where distances are greater, the rails are still making a fight for a place in the sun in passenger service.

When I took a sleeper from Klamath Falls, Ore., to San Francisco earlier in the year, the gracious service was reminiscent of an earlier period.

As a frequent air traveler at home and overseas, I am second to none in my admiration for progress in plane performance. But the wise and experienced traveler should be completely objective in selecting modes of transportation. Those with importantfixed dates, such as lecturers, find that the best procedure is to use all modes of transportation, depending on schedules. Rented automobiles, buses, and trains are still a valuable supplement and feeder to air travel.

And, in overseas travel, transportation by luxury steamer is tops for those wanting a rest. (Until the current crisis in the dollar ends, with the adverse balance of international payments, it is the part of patriotism for vacationists to "see America first.")

* * *

In big corporations, experts are employed to select itineraries and to route shipments of goods. The unaffiliated traveler should seek equivalent service through independent travel agencies, which are equipped to give data not only about all modes of transportation, but also concerning hotel reservations.

Short of this, the frequent traveler should have in his personal library an official guide of the railways, a bus guide, and an air travel guide. In all American cities, facilities are available for renting automobiles.

With the rapid turnover of information and reservation clerks in the public transportation agencies, travelers are sometimes needlessly burdened by inefficient routing of trips. Usually a little thought can add to convenience and frequently make possible a good night's rest which otherwise would be interrupted.

The travel agencies do not add to the passenger's costs. They are paid 5% by the air lines, steamship lines and hotels to which they give business. The railroads do not pay a commission, and this disparity may have aggravated the trend of passenger travel away from the rails.

While other modes of transportation have been respectively improving, on the one hand, and tending to deteriorate, on the other, the bus industry has done a spectacular face-lifting job. New air-conditioned buses, with built-in rest rooms, are evidence of a rising standard of living.

These changes should be delineated because many middle-aged and older persons fixed their notions about methods of transportation early in life, and are denying themselves optimum facilities today because of failure to recognize the significant changes that have taken place.

Never in history have people been as much on the move as Americans in recent years.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self-addressed envelopes should be sent in care of this newspaper. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column).

San Francisco's Sea Lions Safe One More Year

San Francisco (AP)—California's sea lions got a Christmas present when State Senator promised there won't be any legislation passed this year to exterminate them.

Some sport and commercial fishermen have wanted the playful, whiskered sea lions wiped out as a menace to fishing. A "Committee to Save the Sea Lions" and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals quickly lined up on the other side.

Sen. J. Howard Williams, a Republican and chairman of a Senate interim fact-finding Committee on Natural Resources, said recent hearings established that about half of the sea lions are based on federal government owned rocks, beyond jurisdiction of the state.

Besides, he added, there is an argument that the sea lions help keep down predatory fish. So eradicating the sea lions might accomplish just the opposite of what fishermen hope.

No one believes this closes the issue or permanently insures a better actuarial break for sea lions. The State Fish and Game Department notes that the first complaint about sea lions was received in 1880.

Exports Up

Taipei, Formosa (AP)—Formosa earned a record $165 million in foreign exchange through exports this year, the government announced.

Christmas Fails To Stall Fight By Algerian Rebels

Algiers, Algeria (AP)—Fighting and terrorism continued in Algeria this Christmas.

Military authorities at Philippeville said 11 Moslem auxiliaries and two French soldiers had been killed in a clash with Nationalist Rebels two miles outside the town.

A civilian was injured when a terrorist hurled a grenade into a bar at Bone.

Moslem demonstrators overturned two automobiles and set them afire in a suburb of Oran. When firemen reached the scene, they were stoned by the crowd. Riot police finally cleared the area.

Skiers Sought

Vienna (UPI)—A rescue team sought to save 5 French skiers cut off in an isolated hut high in the mountains of Austria's Vorarlberg Province.
